LETTERS FROM THE PRESIDENTS.

A. President Santiago Lobo.

It is with great pleasure and excitement that I welcome you to the IX version of CERVMUN. Since I was a kid, I have been deeply immersed in the MUN world, and through my experiences, I have come to realize that with hard work and self-belief, everything is possible. In this letter, I would like to encourage you to believe in yourselves as you embark on this journey.

When growing up I couldn't help but notice a Model United Nations is not just an academic simulation; it is a platform where young minds like yours can make a significant impact. The skills you develop here—public speaking, diplomacy, negotiation, and critical thinking—are invaluable and will serve you well in all aspects of your life.

Start believing in yourself and in your capacities, your talents, the things you have that makes you unique from others. Remember, the success of our committee depends on each of you. Your ideas, your research, and your passion are what drive our discussions and shape our resolutions. Believe in your ability to make a difference, and don't be afraid to take the lead. take this quote made by Michael Korda, "If you don't believe in yourself, then who will believe in you?"

As your President, my goal is to create a supportive and engaging environment where every delegate feels empowered to contribute.

If you have any questions or need assistance at any point, please do not hesitate to reach out to me. I am here to support you and ensure you have a rewarding and memorable experience at CERVMUN.

B. President Soffía Bautista.

Dear delegates,

Welcome to the IX version of the CERVMUN. I want to thank you for choosing this committee and embarking on this exciting journey which we will all be part of, and I am sure you are not going to regret it. We have worked day and night, not only the presidents but also the entire staff, to make this CERVMUN an unforgettable experience for all of you, so I really hope you are going to enjoy it.

I feel really happy to be the president of this committee, it is a unique opportunity from which I am sure I will learn many things from each one of you. I don't want this committee just to be an academic opportunity, but I want it also to be an exciting activity, where all of you can have fun, meet new people, and prove your skills or discover them.

Delegates, remember this, it is okay to be afraid, but it is not okay to let the fear dominate you. Maybe, on the first day of debate many of you might be afraid of raising your placards and talking, especially if you are juniors, it is completely fine, even I have felt that way too. I clearly remember my first MUN, it was a few years ago, the first day I was really nervous and did not talk a lot, however, on the second day I tried to fight back that fear and participate. That is what I want you to do, do not hesitate to debate. It does not matter if you do not have the "perfect" participation, what really matters is that you try to overcome your fears and enjoy every single aspect of this MUN. If you make a mistake during the debates, it is okay, we have all made mistakes, but do not let those small mistakes affect you, instead, learn from them so you avoid repeating those same mistakes again.

TOPIC A: NEW GLOBAL ORDER: THE GLOBAL ELITE TRANSFORMATION PLAN.

A. Introduction.

The notion of a "New Global Order" has long been a focal point in international relations, symbolizing profound shifts in global power structures and governance. Central to this idea is the role of the global elite—a small but influential group of individuals and organizations that wield significant economic, political, and technological power. This elite group is often seen as orchestrating a transformation plan aimed at creating a more unified and controlled global system. A secretive power elite with a globalist agenda is conspiring to eventually achieve world domination and rule the world through an authoritarian one-world government—which will replace sovereign nation-states—and an all-encompassing propaganda whose ideology hails the establishment of the New World Order as the culmination of history's progress.

In today's interconnected world, the global elite play a crucial role in shaping policies and decisions that affect billions of lives. Their influence extends across various sectors, including finance, technology, media, and governance. Through platforms, these influential figures collaborate and strategize on addressing pressing global issues, from economic instability and climate change to technological innovation and geopolitical tensions.

The global elite's transformation plan is seen as an effort to create a more controlled and cohesive international system. Proponents argue that such a plan is necessary to address complex global challenges efficiently and effectively. They advocate for coordinated actions and policies that can promote sustainable development, economic growth, and global security.

The rapid advancement of technology and the acceleration of globalization have further intensified these concerns. While these forces have brought about economic growth and development, they have also created new challenges related to privacy, data security, and the equitable distribution of benefits. The influence of the global elite in shaping policies related to these areas has become a focal point of contention, with calls for more inclusive and democratic governance mechanisms.

Moreover, the rise of populist movements and growing distrust in established institutions reflect a broader skepticism toward the global elite's intentions and actions. Many people feel that the benefits of globalization have not been evenly distributed and that the current system disproportionately favors the wealthy and powerful. This discontent has fueled demands for greater transparency, accountability, and participation in global governance.

The discourse around the New Global Order and the Global Elite Transformation Plan raises critical questions about the future of global governance.

In navigating the path toward a New Global Order, it is essential to remain vigilant against the potential for abuse of power and to strive for a world where governance is just, inclusive, and reflective of our shared human values. By fostering dialogue, promoting transparency, and advocating for equitable policies, we can work towards a global system that not only addresses the challenges of our time but also uplifts the aspirations of all people

Ultimately, the journey towards a New Global Order is not just about restructuring power dynamics but about reimagining and rebuilding a world that is fair, inclusive, and sustainable for future generations. This requires a collective commitment to uphold the principles of justice, equity, and human dignity in all aspects of global governance.

B. Historical background.

To understand the current transformations, we must first delve into the historical context. The concept of a global elite is not new; it has roots in the emergence of powerful dynasties, multinational corporations, and influential political figures who have shaped international relations for centuries. However, the nature and influence of this elite group have significantly evolved with globalization and technological advancements.

The concept of a "New Global Order" has evolved significantly over time, reflecting various political, economic, and social transformations. The idea typically centers around a restructuring of global power dynamics, often driven by elite groups aiming to influence or control the direction of global affairs. This theme has been recurrent in history, manifesting in different forms, from colonial empires to modern international organizations.

The aftermath of World War II marked a significant shift in the global order. The establishment of the United Nations in 1945 was a critical step toward fostering international cooperation and preventing future conflicts. During the Cold War, the world was largely divided into two blocs led by the United States and the Soviet Union. This bipolar structure influenced global politics, economies, and ideologies until the dissolution of the Soviet Union in 1991.

The end of the Cold War and the subsequent acceleration of globalization in the 1990s and 2000s brought about significant changes. Advances in technology, communication, and transportation led to increased interconnectedness, however, these changes also led to concerns about the growing influence of a global elite – a small group of powerful individuals and organizations shaping global policies and markets.

C. Current situation.

The international community is in the midst of an immense period of crisis. On September 20 of 2024 at 8:00am, during an ordinary meeting of the IFAC, the committee received information regarding the appearance of an unidentified superior entity that could be observed all over the planet. According to information provided by the CIA, this unidentified superior entity appeared in the form of an intense and radiant light coming from the sky, and in the form of a gigantic silhouette that could be seen above the buildings.

Inexplicably, at the same time as the unidentified superior entity appeared, the international communications dropped, leaving the UN NEWS as the international community's only reliable form of communication. This caused a great commotion and chaos among the people due to the lack of the quick information they usually receive from social media. The reason behind the lack of global communication is unknown, therefore, the restoration of communications is of the highest urgency. The CIA will be the organization responsible for the investigations carried out to solve this mystery and will share any new discoveries through the UN NEWS.

The appearance of this superior entity not only affects the religious sphere, by starting a war between religions as each one claims that the deity that appeared is the corresponding one of each religion, but also weakens the already existing social structures due to the chaos and power struggle that this appearance generates, which can cause a total destruction of the current social order and the creation of a completely new one that revolves around the observed deity, which can either harm or benefit mankind.

Many of the prestigious figures in the international community are concerned about the remarkable relationship this apparition has with the famous Blue Beam Project proposed by Serge Monast in the 1990s, as this would mean that it is actually the global elites attempting to take total control over humanity by means of a hypersophisticated and global deception, combining advanced technology and supernatural manifestations. However, this controversial relationship is not confirmed, the only information confirmed is the appearance of an unidentified entity.
