This is Jay Tomlinson. My mom works very closely with Native Americans. She visits tribes throughout the state and talks to them about ways to help. Technically with insurance but they try to help with everything. She sees face to face a lot of the racism they face. One instance of this is one tribe she visited had a hospital close to them that they could not go to because they would face discrimination and sometimes blunt refusal of treatment. They have to travel over an hour to another hospital in order to get treatment. These are some articles and statistics that they reference and have collected to better understand the issues that they face daily. We can talk about some of these on Monday since in Indigenous People's day. It would take planning but I might be able to get her or her team her to talk about the issues Native Americans face. Just let me know :) :)
