

Operation Essex Chat regarding Truth posed as Fiction and Yuri's Myth

January 16, 2014

Post referenced by Edgar Allan Wright -

<https://plus.google.com/u/0/110289508116377658380/posts/fs7dFjGSFBb>

Post with Yuri's Parable Story - <https://plus.google.com/108841352205789260050/posts/BPC4wHfCid9>

Discussion on hiding truth in fiction

Though I do send congratulations to Felicia. Met her at the Symposium.

We must spread this to the new players who are being deceived.

Yes. She was identified as what we would now call a 'sensitive.'

the parable that Dr Nagassa shared last night?

discussing the 13MAGNUS transition.

Anazktec/Nazteka are the last remnant of the Cahokia/Cross Plains (Caddo) people

I am working to discover what it is that makes the Shapers try and destroy a civilization -

Discussion on hiding truth in fiction

EAW

<https://plus.google.com/110289508116377658380/posts/fs7dFjGSFBb>

Melissa

•

58 mins

Ty

Oh wow

Daniel Beaudoin

•

58 mins

It is fascinating to me that they have been able to hide the truth in fiction, and it works.

Edgar

•

54 mins

It seems to be a long time strategy of the NIA

Anthony

•

54 mins

hide in the spotlight

Hugo

•

54 mins

Truly disturbing on the level that it utterly reframes reality

Melissa

•

53 mins

Though I do send congratulations to Felicia. Met her at the Symposium.

Edgar

•

53 mins

If you win awards for your "fiction" its even more difficult to convince anyone that it is real.

Anthony

•

53 mins

We must spread this to the new players who are being deceived.

Edgar

•

53 mins

I hadn't realized she'd traveled in XM research circles prior to the submission of An Exotic Matter

Mike

•

53 mins

Is that how you learned that she wrote the books before they happened?

Melissa

•

53 mins

Yes. She was identified as what we would now call a 'sensitive.'

A gifted and cantankerous woman.

Edgar

•

52 mins

She seems to be a friend of the Greanias family as well

Anthony

•

51 mins

I am glad that she seems to have been able to write her novel unmolested, but do you know if anything has been heard from her since then?

Is she now in hiding from the NIA because of this?

Melissa

•

50 mins

In her first publication, she thanked the "Whisperers." Is that a sign that she is on the path of the Enlightened? Or is she still technically unaligned?

Daniel Beaudoin

•

49 mins

Well Melissa, she (we assume) also wrote level 8, and posted recently on G+ about the award.

Anthony

•

49 mins

True, but she has been extremely private

Melissa

•

49 mins

I imagine that works in her advantage.

Anthony

•

48 mins

Melissa it is surprising that the NIA didn't take more steps to silence her... Or I suppose her work being considered fiction only worked more toward their goal..

Daniel Beaudoin

•

48 mins

Also, having her publish as fiction works for the NIA strategy.

Yeah, that.

Anthony

•

48 mins

The Ingress report and recent memos indicate that the NIA is going to become a lot more deadly again

Melissa

•

47 mins

Yes. I have commented on it on the Niantic Project G+ thread under the Ingress Report and I suggest all Essexians do this, too. We can not let this subterfuge slip by.

Edgar

•

47 mins

To what subterfuge are you referring?

Do you believe that Moyer has not truly gone rogue and that the "hit" is being faked?

Anthony

•

46 mins

That the Niantic Project: Ingress is fiction.

Edgar

•

46 mins

Ah, yes.

Anthony

•

46 mins

Let us start that discussion. If they slip this past the public, they will have won.

Edgar

•

45 mins

yes, we definitely need to spread the word. If there is any truth in Ken Owen's statistics, we are all in more danger the less is known about it

Melissa

•

45 mins

Dr. Wright, while you're here, did you have any thoughts on ## the parable that Dr Nagassa shared last night?

Anthony

•

44 mins

Ken Owen is very good at his job, I suspect. I also suspect he thinks he is doing the right thing. I can not tell if he has been shaped.

I haven't seen it. What was it? Yuri is a brilliant man. Very unusual background.

Edgar

•

44 mins

<https://plus.google.com/u/0/108841352205789260050/posts/BPC4wHfCid9>

Nikolas

•

43 mins

"When I was perhaps 10 or 11, my young Anaztec friend told me the legend of a leader named Ichata who had led the tribe to great prosperity. A deep sickness overcame him, a blackness that spread for days until it covered his entire body. One day he left his brothers and sisters and walked into the mountains. A man from the village followed him for many days as he walked further and further away. He saw Ichata go into a cave where many cougars lived, and the cougars devoured his flesh and bones. The man came back to the village and told the tribe what had become of their leader. Some days later, a young man walked down from the mountains and came into the village. He had no name, and the tribe named him Ichata."

Seems to refer both to something that resembles Chaotic syndrome, rebirth involving a cave, and memory loss.

Anthony

•

42 mins

Yes. This sounds like an excellent way of

discussing the 13MAGNUS transition.

Edgar

•

42 mins

My understanding is that Felicia submitted her work as fiction long before she saw the events she described unwind through PAC's investigation. Did she have other similar experiences during the Waratah era of the investigation?

Mike

•

42 mins

Also the picture shared with in, the mountains, is interesting in the context of the Alexander Magnus map which put the 13magnus cave in a mountain range.

Anthony

•

41 mins

The name implies Aztec origin of the tale, Do you think there could be remenants of the truth in that region?

Melissa

•

41 mins

I wonder which tribe is older? The Aztec or the Anazktek? Perhaps the tale spread from one tribe to the other..

Daniel Beaudoin

•

40 mins

the Anazktec seem to have similarities to several south and central american tribes. Possible shared ancestor?

Mike

•

40 mins

Yes. I believe, and this is a theory +Yuri Nagassa and I discussed long ago, that the

Anazktec/Nazteka are the last remnant of the Cahokia/Cross Plains (Caddo) people who were destroyed by the Shaper self-destruct code. It is just a theory, but a powerful one.

It is no accident that Die Glocke was drawn to that region.

Edgar

•

39 mins

There was also a single reference to a civilization surviving in a cave system beneath Cahokia IL, could there be a North American remnant that's isolated from (or perhaps even communicating with) the main Anazktec social structure?

Mike

•

37 mins

The aztecs often associated the jaguars with the darkness and destruction

the Cahokia worshipped a cat headed snake

Melissa

•

37 mins

The story immediately struck me as similar to the legends of Caddo and those left behind when humanity emerged from the cave.

Mike

•

37 mins

Perhaps there is a tie there

Melissa

•

36 mins

Yes. I think there is very much a tie-in.

I am working to discover what it is that makes the Shapers try and destroy a civilization

-

- as they tried to with us at Cassandra. Must go now.

Edgar

•

36 mins