تذكر كلمات مفتاحية تدل على محتوى الورقة البحثية لا تقل عن خمس كلمات مفتاحية ولا تزيد عن سبع، مرتبة ترتيباً أبجدياً، وتستعمل الفاصلة بينها.

Notice: number of pages should not exceed (25) pages for humanities, and (15) pages for applied sciences. However, Review Articles should not exceed (45) pages, and has at least (50) references/sources.

Introduction

The introduction should include the theoretical framework of the study, related studies, and the objectives. It also should explain the purpose of the study, and research hypotheses. All paragraphs should be indented, justified, single-spaced, and use 12-point Times New Roman.

Statement of the Problem

The research problem is clearly stated with precision and conciseness.

Aim of the Study

Objectives are formulated as main and sub-objectives.

Significance of the Study

This section discusses the expected contributions of the study to its academic and professional field, not the general importance of the research topic. It should also identify the key beneficiaries of this research.

Related Studies

This section reviews previous studies directly related to the research topic, including published papers, theses, and dissertations that contribute to the current work.

Methodology, Research Tools and Procedures

This section outlines the tools and procedures used in conducting the study, including measurement instruments, data collection methods, sample size, as well as experimental procedures and statistical techniques employed for data analysis. It should provide a detailed description of the devices, or software used, along with justifications for selecting each tool to ensure the study's reliability, accuracy objectivity and validity in data processing and analysis.

Literatue Review

The research paper should be written in proper language and thoroughly reviewed for grammatical and spelling accuracy prior to submission. Scientific terms may be included in English (in parentheses) with their corresponding Arabic equivalents. Figures and tables must be numbered sequentially throughout the paper, as illustrated in Table 1 and Figure 1 below.

Results and Discussion

The results and discussion may be presented under a single heading or under two separate sections. This part of the research should present the findings from experiments, surveys, or other scientific instruments used in the study, displayed in tables, graphs, figures, or images, accompanied by neutral/unbiased explanations.

The results should be compared with the most significant previous works in the field. The researcher should clarify the degree of accuracy and potential errors. Additionally, the researcher must provide an interpretation of the findings. Furthermore, the implications of the results should be discussed.

Recommendations

This section presents the key recommendations derived from the study, based on the data and discussions outlined above. The recommendations are listed as bullet points in clear and simplified language.

Acknowledgement

If necessary, a brief acknowledgement (not exceeding three lines) may be included here to thank the funding agency or any individual who contributed significantly to the research but is not listed as an author.

References

This section lists all references cited in the research paper, formatted according to the APA 7th edition. Entries are sorted alphabetically by authors' last names. The first line is flush left, while subsequent lines are indented (0.5 inches). Non-Latin scripts (e.g. Arabic references) are written in their original script, plus English translation (if needed).
