

Cerdoisum

By: Dylen Conklin

A long, long time ago the only creatures living were pigs and cows that roamed the earth, they constantly were fighting and then one day they went to war. The reason why they went against each other was because the cows kept on invading the pigs lives and same with the cows perspective. It was a really struggling and difficult war to go against each other from both sides of view . The only thing keeping the pigs in shape was the strongest soldier Chubbs. Soldier Chubbs was the most courageous warrior in the army and he ended the war with the perfect plan. He took one of his men and launched him up into space. After five minutes the pig that got launched came back down at full speed creating a bacon bomb, killing almost the entire population of cows. All the pigs thanked Chubbs for his unselfish actions, saving their kind. After that war Chubbs was declared the ruler of the pigs for his smart thinking. Since Chubbs was a leader now he made the pigs believe that the few cows left still alive were never ever meant to be friends with pigs.

All of the rules that were made by ruler Chubbs were.

- You must pray for the cows to be extinct forever
- You must never hang out with the cows who are suppose to be you enemy's
- You must pray in a temple or circle around a statue of ruler Chubb

- There is only one holiday and that is when you have a celebration the day of when the war ended.

The pigs were told to pray for all the cows still on the planet for them to be extinct forever and never come back, but a few pigs secretly had hoped for the cows to actually get their population back and be free. There would be temples and statues of Chubbs the leader all around the globe for pigs to circle around and do their praying there. If you were ever caught being friends with a cow you would be killed and turned into bacon for being so ungrateful and disrespectful to Chubbs. This religion was called cerdoisum it is pig in spanish and that religion was very very strict. One day there was a group of pigs hanging out with their usual friends but they felt as if they were lonely because they never got to hangout with the cows because they were different. These kids made a plan and secretly teamed up with the other cows living to fight back to Chubbs. The full week they trained to become strong and to have the same courage ruler Chubbs did so he would be outnumbered. They went and attacked Chubbs to the point he was dead for sure. After he was dead everyone started cheering because now everyone was together. That is the story of how cerdoisum the religion that started and ended with everyone being united forever.