History to Current

Weronica was born into a low income household within the suburbs of Chicago. Her mother was an alcoholic and her father gambled, snorted coke, and slept around. Despite this they were able to provide a decent upbringing for Weronica until she turned 16. Her parents began to begin taking out loans from various sources, all linking back to the Chicago Spirits, the infamous mafia that originated from the Chicagoland area. Once she turned 18 she came home to a terrifying sight.

Several members of the Chicago Spirits were in their house, talking with Weronica's parents. Despite being rushed upstairs she overheard the discussion, talking about how much was owed. It was at this moment that she made the decision. In order to help pay off the debts owed, she decided to work for the spirits. After nearly a year of faithful service, it was all for nothing. Weronica arrived at her home to see her parents dead inside, a note left behind by the Spirits. It was an "invitation" to join their ranks. However the debt was still owed, this was more of a formality and a way to entrap Weronica into servitude. Knowing she would be unable to run away, she begrudgingly accepted and joined the ranks of the Chicago Spirits, becoming a Henchman who would specialize in debt collection, an ironic fate. As time went on, she would begin to develop Bipolar 1 Disorder, which is only exemplified whenever she is on the job. It is practically night and day how she acts.

One side is a cold and ruthless killer, the other is still that scared, sad girl from Chicago. In September of 2024, a section of CS was tasked to create and foster a new location in Twin Pines, Alaska, where she volunteered for it, getting placed among the ranks within Twin Pines. For several months following November of 2024, she would spend time back in the Chicagoland area, doing what she did best and making more connections within the Spirits before transferring back in March of 2025, where she has once again become a Henchman of Twin Pines.
