

School Suspension Project:
How we walk together when we cannot be beside one another!
Alyssa Talbot
Learning Support: Margaret Park School

---

The Circle of Courage

Generosity

- leaving notes around the community
- painting rocks and leaving them around the community with kind messages or beautiful pictures
- Schools reaching out to community and offering food to families who access our breakfast program.
- teachers reaching out to individual students living in unique circumstances

Belonging

- using social media and online learning to create opportunities to have time face to face
- checking in with colleagues each day
- staying connected to the school by connecting with administrators and other LST

- online resources allow for students to access their learning independently
- accountability – what does this look like for independent students and teachers?
- devices allow for students to be more independent and self-driven
- how do we get devices to families who may not have access?

- how do we support specialists in their process of communicating with families to offer them opportunities to fine tune their craft?
- what community resources do we have available to encourage students to create?
- how can we, as learning support teachers support students in reading and writing, experiencing mastery in literacy?

Mastery