

SOUTH BEACH REVOLUTION

The scene opens up right on South Beach, where we see three people with Unity shirts holding out flyers, trying to attract the on-goers to a special VilaroFit membership, and flyers for the brand new Vilaro U. Last time the Fitness Queen was seen on XWF television, things didn't go Marisol's way. She and her opponent, Summer Page, pinned the same person at the same time, but the referee called the match for Summer instead of her. However, despite the camera pans, I saw the Fitness Queen in the flesh. Who is walking into the frame?

Marisol Vilaro: What a beautiful day, don't you all agree?

Marisol stared into the horizon as the camera spots the sunset in beautiful Miami. It was a fall day; however, the temperatures were still perfect for people to be on the beach. The Founder of VilaroFit is soon back in focus.

Marisol Vilaro: We are at the horizon of revolution and change, led by VilaroFit and the Unity movement. So many have signed up to VilaroU, and so many continue to come through the halls of VilaroFit daily. You all want to be the best version of yourselves, and I help you reach that potential. However, right now, XWF Anarchy needs me more than ever. What kind of decision was last week's? Because we all know who truly won that match, and that was me. And I am not the only one who knows this, why?

Marisol paused, her jaw slightly tapping as if she were pondering her following sentence, and she soon spoke.

Marisol Vilaro: Because, how disgusted I was that Summer of all people was allowed to cheat me, yes, that Summer. I mean lets be honest after our business dealings ended you ended up listening to all of the liars of the worlds Serenity, Griffin, all of those people who belong in the past of this business, all of the people who pollute and destroy this industry, who degrade the world all of the people who need to be moved aside, and you chose to side with them? I am so disappointed in you, but you know I am more disappointed in myself, and you know why that is?

Marisol shook her head in disgust, keeping her eyes fixed on the camera, though her gaze was also on the world, as the Unity members were doing something out of the corner of the screen.

Marisol Vilaro: Because, you could have more than you have you really could of, but yet you chose the easy path, the followers path, the path of those who are against the coming change, but anyway that is something I should of seen coming with my wisdom, my vision but yet I allowed my caring of you as a person blind me back then. But I see clearly, and speaking of seeing clearly, see all of you clearly how I was cheated. Still, you weren't the only one, as I mentioned earlier, because I have a prepared statement from a private investigator I hired, and he overlooked the footage, and if you allow me.

Marisol paused for just a brief second as she was handed a piece of paper that looked official, and she took the time to clear her throat before speaking.

Marisol Vilaro: And I quote, " Having overlooked the footage in question on the last episode of Anarchy, it is clear that Miss Vilaro got the pin and the three count before Summer Page, not the other way. The referee of the match showed great negligence, and the result should be reversed immediately." That was from Sheldon P. Cooper, Esquire. He has an office right here in Miami, but we know XWF is incapable of making the right choices, so they will allow that travesty of justice to remain intact, all because justice requires too much hard work. Much more than XWF as a whole is capable of handling, apparently.

Marisol sighs in an annoyed fashion.

Marisol Vilaro: But I have not only the ability, the drive, but the care to deliver true justice, and that is what will happen when I face Summer Page on night two of Relentless, the biggest show of the year, right here in Miami, the home base of VilaroFit, the home base of Unity. Home of the vale, and where power moves, and where the world changes. Because, Summer, you will take the fall as I move on to what I deserve more than anything else: my spot as the number one contender to the Revolution Championship, because only the leader of a revolution should be the Revolution Champion. And after our match, you will realise the truth in the words of Marisol Vilaro, and the truth in the mission statement of VilaroFit. But there is one more set of words you will finally fully understand in the meeting.

Marisol takes a longer pause, her eyes become colder, and more distant. Before flashing with light as she slowly speaks the next sentence, to allow each word to fill the area.

Marisol Vilaro: ENTRUST IN MARI!

Soon Marisol blows a kiss toward the camera, as she smiles broadly, as the screen pans out, and we now see what the Unity members have been working on. They been placing a sign in the sand of South Beach itself, that VilaroLux is heading stateside, and will be in Miami, then the scene fades to black.
