I want to discuss new ways to increase attention through running ads, as the engagement on your Instagram account is decreasing.

running ads is going to get more people into your Instagram account so you can use this attention to monetize it.

And I will do this for nothing, but I am not sure if this is going to work for you 100%.

So if you are interested reply to discuss and see if this is going to work for you?

Hi Courtney,

I found something that may benefit you in getting more people to book a consulting call Or to boost your engagement.

I think running ads but why ads specifically? Because you need to increase your reach to people to find audiences who are interested in real estate.

But I am not sure if it's going to work for you because I need more details. Would you be open for a 10-minute Zoom call just to discuss whether that's going to work for you?

Abdulrahman

Hi Courtney,

I have done some analysis of your Instagram account and I found that your engagement is becoming low.

But you can get back the interaction and more if you start running ads to specific targets and with some strategies.

But after all, I don't know if that is going to work 100% for you because I have limited

Details about your situation so would you be against booking a Zoom call just to discuss if this is going to work with you.

Abdulrahman
