

A Message to Share with Families

Dear families,

We hope you'll find time to relax and have fun this summer, but also to continue to engage students in learning. Are you looking for ways your kids can continue to build academic and success skills, while sparking their imagination (and motivation)? Then please take a look at a free resource from nonprofit PBLWorks.

This Teachable Moment is a free eBook that offers an intro to Project Based Learning (PBL), and features 21 easily implemented, “follow the recipe” PBL projects, informed by educational research and designed for children of all ages and capabilities within your household.

Each project includes detailed directions and recommended adjustments for different grade levels. Through Project Based Learning, kids have the opportunity to build literacy: reading, writing, listening, and speaking. Additionally, they'll practice success skills such as: communication, critical thinking, self-directed learning, and collaboration.

And after the pandemic eases, the eBook can continue to be a resource for parents, caregivers, and homeschooling families.

Using This Teachable Moment as a roadmap, you can build a simple summer routine that engages your children, and keeps their curiosity and love of learning alive during these unprecedented times.

Have a wonderful summer!
