

"Don't Walk Away"

Date range confirmed in Mike Smallcombe's "Making Michael" ("By April [2001], Teddy Riley had seemingly grown weary of working out of a remote recording truck and returned to his home in Virginia Beach. Michael decided to join him, and stayed in a two-bedroom condo belonging to the producer... Michael and Riley also worked on a ballad, 'Don't Walk Away'... In June 2001, after close to four years of anticipation, delays and infighting, Michael finally decided to stop recording new music and wrap up production.")
