

USS Alabama has been moved to dry dock in a distant Pacific island for maintenance. Dry dock is part of the navy base and there has been quite a lot of US military activity on the island ever since WW2. It is not a secret that China and Russia are interested of the activities on the island and might already be present on the island.

Since the USS Alabama arrived at the dock, there has been an increase in tourist rates and some weird languages can be heard around the island.

Darkness has just covered the island and a thunderstorm is about to rise...
