What is your Current State and why is it painful/frustrating?

I am a broke college student working as a technician in a hospital. I can't help but feel like my life is moving too slowly. All I want to do in life is make money. I don't care about school or being a doctor as I originally thought when I graduated High school. The only thing I ever cared about even when I was choosing my career path is money. I understand there are other and better ways to make money and it pisses me off that I don't have any. School is just a distraction from everything I want to achieve in life. Yet I want to graduate so my parents can feel proud because they truly don't understand how I want to live my life. I don't want to go to Med School and wait until I'm 30 to make only 300K per year. 12 years of my life just to make 300K and in the first 5-6 years I'd be paying off the massive amount of student debt I accumulated so I'd only make 100K or less in those years and by the time I'm 36 I still wouldn't be making the kind of money I want to make. So, I can spend 8 more years working towards that or 8 years trying to make my first million.

What is your future Dream State and what makes it desirable/exciting?

First and foremost, I want a luxury lifestyle. I want to travel, buy nice things, sleep with beautiful women, everything associated. A life that for most people will only be a dream. The difference with me is my dreams will become a reality and I will do anything to make sure that statement is true. That statement is the only reason I get up for work every morning. Each day I get closer and closer. Past that I want to find any even greater meaning in life, and I can't do that without first living the lifestyle til it gets boring. When it gets boring that is when I will find the greatest meaning, It will no longer be about money or women. I will already have all of that. It will be about leaving a legacy. If I don't get to that point I will never be fulfilled in life. I will always feel like a failure, like I could've done more but I chose not to. That is my dream.
