TRANSITIONAL READER PROMPTS (LEVELS J, K, L, M & sometimes N, O, P; DRA 18-28)

Self-Monitoring & Decoding Multi-Syllable Words	Fluency	Checking Comprehension
● What can you do? ● Was there a tricky part? ● Reread and think about what would look right & make sense. ● Check the middle (or end) of the word. Does what you said match what you see? ● Chunk the word and think about what would sound right and make sense. If you need to, use your finger to help you. ● Do you know this word? [Write a word that shares a spelling pattern with the word or the hard part of the word; example out for bountiful or uncle for tentacle.] ● Is there a part you know? (Are there part you know?) ● Is there another word you know that looks like part of this word? *ALWAYS ENCOURAGE THE CHILD TO REREAD THE SENTENCE after they figure out the word AND THINK ABOUT THE MEANING of that word in the sentence.	● Phrasing: Try to read in phrases of two to three words. Then your brain can hold onto the meaning better. (Frame 2-3 words for the st; 1)model, 2)echo read, 3)ask the student to read on their own.) ● Rate: As you read each word, move your eyes to the next word so your brain can get a head start. (From the left side, slide your finger over text to push the student's eye forward as they read.) ● Expression: How would the character say that? ● Punctuation: ○ Demonstrate reading with and without pausing for punctuation. ○ Discuss the why of pausing. Punctuation at the end of a sentence gives the reader's eye a break. OR Some types of punctuation have an additional purpose like signaling that the author has asked a question or that the author is excited.	SEE FLUENT STAGE PROMPTS

FLUENT READER PROMPTS

Checking Comprehension & Vocabulary Knowledge
Within the Text - Literal	Beyond the Text- Interpretive	About the Text - Evaluative
Nonfiction: ● What did you learn on this page (or in this section)? ● If a student does not include key details or seems to misunderstand the info: Let's go back and reread each (or this) sentence (or paragraph) and stop to think about the information we are learning. Fiction: ● What happened in this part of the story? ● Tell me more about that. ● If a student's response reveals misunderstanding, ask the student to reread to check for understanding. You might say: I want you to check to make sure you're right about that. Would you reread…? While you're reading, be thinking about what is happening. ● If the student continues to misunderstand, think aloud about how you made sense of the text. When I read this part, I noticed that…	Nonfiction: ● What is the author's main idea on this page (in this section)? What in the text makes you think so? OR Which sentence in the passage best supports this idea? ● What is the most important thing you learned about ____? Why do you think so? ● What is the author trying to get the reader to understand about this topic (or issue)? ● Explain why ____ is important. ● Which idea in the text does this text feature support? What makes you think so? Fiction: ● What can you infer happened—using the clues in the text and your background knowledge? ● How do you think the character is feeling? What in the text makes you think so? How does this move the story forward? ● Which character trait does this character show? Which sentence in the passage/text/story best support the idea that (character) is (trait)? ● How did the character change? What did she/he learn? ● What is a theme that seems to be emerging? What are parts of the story that make you think so? Vocabulary: ● What is the meaning of (word) in this sentence? How do you know? ● What does this word (or phrase) mean? What clues did you use to figure that out? (Clues may be a part of the word for which the student knows the meaning or a context clue like a synonym, definition, general clue, or visual image.) BE PREPARED TO THINK ALOUD ABOUT HOW YOU WOULD USE CLUES IN THE TEXT & YOUR BACKGROUND KNOWLEDGE TO ANSWER A QUESTION.	● What is the author's purpose? Why do you think the author wrote this? What in the text makes you think so? ● What is the structure of this text? How is the structure connected to the author's purpose? ● What is the author's point of view? Which sentence explains or reveals this point of view? ● What is the text's structure? Why did the author organize the text in this way? ● How does the author develop the main idea in this text (or section of text)? ● Why do you think the author used the word(s)____ to describe____? How does that contribute to a key idea in the text? ● What type of text feature is this? How does it contribute to a bigger idea in the text? ● How would you describe the layout and design of this part of the text? How does that support the reader in making sense of the bigger ideas in the text? ● How did the author choose to start and end the text? Why?

❖ Depending on the text, some questions may fall into a different category. For example, a main idea or a character's feelings or the meaning of a vocabulary word may be stated explicitly, requiring only a "within the text" response.