

Bood (בוד)

A body, specifically a toned and muscular body. From the English word body.

Coksinel (קוקסינל)

Originally unique to transvestitism, now a general term for all forms of gender transgression and for transgender people. Was for many years considered a slur but is now being reclaimed by the Israeli transgender community. From the French word Coccinelle, meaning ladybug. It was the stage name of Jacqueline Charlotte Dufresnoy, a French transgender entertainer and singer whose tour of Israeli night clubs in 1964 was a public scandal and introduced transgenderism to Israeli society.

Cookitza (קוקיטה)

A young gay man, particularly a skinny, effeminate and flamboyant one. From the English word cookie, inspired by the English gay slang word twink, probably because of the similarity with the word twinkie.

Dkekt (דקקט)

A small penis. From the Hebrew word דק (dak), meaning thin or slim.

Eft (אפט)

A big penis. From the English word apt, meaning appropriate or suitable.

Falsch (פאלש)

1. To lie, to be dishonest or deceitful.
2. To fib, to embellish, to exaggerate.
3. To not be genuine, to be a “phony” or give off the appearance of being “fake”.

Through Yiddish, ultimately from the German word falsch (false, incorrect, wrong).

Alternatively, possibly from the English word false.

Fatoocz (פָּטוּצָץ)

Ostensibly “goodbye” but used exclusively in a dismissive and derogatory way. Used to make it clear to someone that you do not think highly of them and would like for them to leave your presence. Alternatively, used to end a conversation while making it clear that you did not appreciate what the other person was saying. Origin unknown. Probably a unique creation.

Flega (פלגה)

A stupid person, an idiot. From the English word phlegmatic.

Forach (פורח)

A good time, but often used specifically for a party, especially a wild and rumbunctious one. Possibly from the Hebrew word for poreach (spelled the same in Hebrew), meaning to blossom or to bloom.

Gavro/AI HaGavro (גברו/על הגברו)

Masculinity, to be masculine. AI HaGavro: to present masculine, to appear in men's clothing. Used both for drag queens while out of drag and for drag kings in drag. From the Hebrew word גבר (gever), meaning man.

Haramot/LeHarim (הרמות/להרים)

To act merry, joyful, and gay. Specifically, to speak in gay slang. From a Hebrew word meaning "to lift" in the sense of "lifting (one's) spirits".

Jongleur (ז'ונגלהָר)

The peak of elegance and sophistication. A French word meaning juggler.

Jonj (ג'ונג)

A penis. Origin unknown. Probably a unique creation.

Jordel/LeJardel (ז'ורדָל)

1. Tel Aviv's Gan Ha'Atzmaut (גן העצמאות), or Independence Garden – a municipal park.
2. Broadly, to have sex with other men, particularly strangers, in public parks.

A portmanteau of the French words Jardin, meaning garden, and bordel, meaning brothel.

Tel Aviv's Independence Garden, referred to by gay men in French as Jardin de L'indépendance to make it sound classier, is a favorite spot for Israeli gay men to have anonymous sex in public.

Koveret (קוברט)

To look beautiful. From a Hebrew word meaning "to bury (someone)".

Kubur (קובור)

A big penis. From a similar Arabic word meaning "big".

Oktcz/Oktcza (ה'וך/ה'זחָה):

A gay person, specifically an effeminate and/or flamboyant one. From the Arabic word أخت (pronounced ukht), meaning sister.

Lehapil (להפַּיל)

To have sex with a straight man. From the Hebrew idiom Lehapil BaPach (להפַּיל בְּפַח) meaning "to trap" or "to fool someone (into doing something)".

Lird/Lard/Loord (לירד/לארד/לוורד)

An attractive man. Three interchangeable variations of the same word. Origin unknown.

Possibly from the English word lord.

Lirlur/LeLarler (לirlור/לLalar)

1. To gossip.
2. To run your mouth, to talk too much.

From Judo-Tat, a Jewish language spoken in the Caucasus Mountains. Also an onomatopoeia.

Markita (מרקיטה)

A somewhat antiquated word for a gay man. From an Italian word meaning to be effeminate.

Nesh/Al HaNesh (נש/על הנש)

Femininity, to be effeminate. Al HaNesh: to present feminine, to appear in women's clothing. Sometimes used for doing drag. From the Hebrew word נשיות (nashiyoot), femininity.

Schtrich/LeHaschtrich (שטריך/להשטריך)

To cruise, to seek out sexual encounters with other gay men. From the German word strich, which means "straight line" but is also used for "promenade". The Tel Aviv beach promenade was at one time a major cruising spot for Israeli gay men.

Us (עוי') (the s is pronounced like in the word usually)

1. Mundane, unexciting, boring.
2. A boring person.

From the English word usual.

Voija (ויאז'ה)

An aging gay man. From the Judeo-Spanish (Ladino) word vieja, meaning an old woman.

Wedge (גזרה')

Face. From the Arabic word واجه (pronounced wajah), face.

Yachti (אחות')

Your sis, your good Judy, your friend. A variation on the Hebrew achot (אחות), sister.

-ze

A vaguely French-sounding suffix, but not actually French, used to make words sound classier. Is particularly used to describe something good. Example: Madhooze, a portmanteau of the Hebrew word madhim ("amazing") and the suffix -ze.
