

FoxTALE Make Your Course Visible

Instructions have been relocated to the libguide: Making Your Course Site Visible to Students

Visible Setting

FoxTALE course sites are created “hidden” to students. Hidden course site titles are greyed out in your list of courses. Students do not see hidden courses at all. When you are ready for students to see and enter your course site, you’ll need to make the course site visible to students.

After the course is completed

Students frequently contact the Service Desk asking why a past course site is still showing on their course list. It is your choice whether to hide your course immediately after the course is completed, however, the IT department will hide all the previous semester course sites a few weeks into the next semester. Course sites are visible or hidden for all students enrolled in the course.

NOTE: Course sites on FoxTALE are not hidden automatically after a course is completed. Whether a student can see a course in their course list is not an indicator of course completion.
