

seonghan kashino lore - twitter pieces

(edited to remove ramblings/unimportant bits or provide clarity. these are in order of when i tweeted them, starting from the oldest tweet. these are typically responses to #wolqotd prompts.)

- han is usually confident, but doesn't show it much since he barely talks to anyone.
- han loves any sugary drink, but also loves plain cold water.
- han is scared of patterns in nature.
- on his first date, han didn't know it was a first date, he just loved being with cephei and didn't even think to clarify. he probably had to sit with them and literally draw out a timeline and pinpoint when their first date was. han was just happy to be there, in love but didn't know the words for it yet, just hanging out with his best friend ever, no awkwardness at all.
- with james it was a planned date and it was definitely them fishing or eating by the ocean while fireworks were happening or something very chill. they were friends for a long time first, so he wasn't awkward beyond just like "hehehehehe this is a date hehehe" giddy awkward.
- han avoids most competition but if it's something silly and fun, he'll try his best.
- people making plans with him means the world to him, because he tends to go from place to place after saying hi to those he knows at one spot but if someone makes plans with him he will stay somewhere indefinitely to hang out with them.
- han does simple eye and lip makeup, mostly to bring some color to him since he spends so much time in cloudy cold places fishing.
- han's memory is a bit spotty sometimes, but he does remember stuff, he just is very good at making himself forget the bad memories.
- when rolling for loot, han does not care. he always passes. his inventory is full of fish, there's no room for anything else.
- "seonghan" is my (ooc) name, "kashino" is based off a song, i just changed the z to a sh so i could say it a bit more easily. you can listen to the song here.
 - he was supposed to be kind of an asshole, but i decided to make him a softer guy in general, i still like his name enough to keep it though. that's why this song is not in his playlist, it isn't very representative of him now but it is where his name comes from!
- when people and general citizens talk about him, they speak of a fish fanatic that wanders the land and it's no rumor, han loves fishing and is always moving to the next best spot.
- when he is feeling down, han goes anywhere fish are, but prefers colder and isolated fishing spots.
- when he first meets his partners, both times he becomes a lot happier. he isn't as hard on himself and appreciates life in general a lot more. when the very serious part of his story happens, he is less self-destructive at first than he would have been when he was younger.

- han is romantic, but he second-guesses himself a lot because he thinks the stuff he thinks of as far as dates and gifts go aren't "good enough."
 - han got his partners chocolate, little gifts like new minions and cute decor pieces, dinner, and dessert for this past valentine's day. he had to restrain himself from giving them cool fish, because he knows fish aren't very romantic.
- to viv: their (cephei and han) ship song is this because of the implications of the song in proper context.
- to me: their ship songs are this because of these lyrics: "you know me like no other, you don't show it but you see me like no other, and i think i like your point of view" "for now for real, what ending are you headed to" "i see it, across the path, we made it together, here". this because of these lyrics: "waiting, how long must i keep waiting, what i would give to have you with me again, come home to me again" "every now and then there's an emptiness that i can't replace but our favorite place makes me feel alive again". this because of these lyrics: "i won't get lost any more. will you wait for me? i'm trying to find you again, i won't be late" "our space that became one, remember every single day, i'm looking for you" "the space between the two of us, i'll go find you every single day, so i can reach you" this because of these lyrics: "run away from necessity, run on, go to the end with me, my lover, two of us, side by side, gone astray on purpose".
- for james and seonghan, their ship song is this because of these lyrics: "when i feel like there's no place on this planet but i don't understand the stars, there's no better place that i could've crash landed and i'd like to be stuck where you are". this, the entire song.
- overall, a good song for seonghan and his relationships is this.
- han's green flags: caring, easy-going, very loyal
- han's red flags: black and white thinking, easily distracted, bad at self care
- things he thinks are green flags in others: loves animals, no ulterior motives, plays with patches
- things he thinks are red flags in others: arrogance, mistreats animals, taking everything too seriously
- when han first meets someone, he doesn't talk much. usually he's with cephei or james and just looks at them so they can communicate for him.
- han eats fruit and some fish off a knife when he's just out in nature away from home, like an old fisherman. he has two separate knives for this, so he doesn't contaminate any fresh fruits and vegetables with fish.
 - he doesn't like biting into an apple because of the texture, and because it's too much apple at one time. he always prefers apple slices, so when he does the "eat an apple" emote, just imagine him pulling a little knife out to eat slices of apple from.

- he offers people food off a knife and doesn't realize this is a bit dangerous because it's what he has always done and he has never cut his mouth. eventually, someone does cut their mouth when he does this for them, so he tries not to do that to others for a while unless he knows they can also eat off a knife safely.
- when han sees a dog or cat outside, he immediately tries to pet them and talk to them. he also holds up patches, his cat, to them to see if they want to be friends.
- han collected pretty rocks and leaves as a child. they were his favorite possessions, but he lost them when he went through puberty and became a soldier.
- han is autistic and has a blank expression that can be misconstrued as a serious expression. he truly almost never has a serious thought, literally the most serious he gets is strategizing fishing locations, times, best bait, etc. he does zone out frequently but it is always in a lighthearted way.
- if han was not in XIV, he would exist in the newest true detective season, investigating what is happening in it.
- han learned archery the usual way, someone taught him, but for all the fishing and crafting he is self-taught and gains bits of knowledge from friends.
- han wants to be closer to tsutsuda, but they're both extremely quiet and lean towards being introverted, so it's hard to just talk to each other sometimes.
- the animal that best describes han is a cat, he's very catlike in general despite being a viera.
- han's speaking dialect is best described as japanese kansai, specifically the kansai spoken in osaka. in the context of speaking in-game, he would be speaking pretty casually, almost sounding rude but meaning no harm.
- han loves sweets, and his weird food craving is that if he's lazy enough he will eat a spoon of plain sugar. people think it is very weird.
- if han was a character based on the way our earth world is, he would be mixed native and east asian like i am!
 - i do subscribe to the viera = native coded headcanon. han specifically to me is native (mexican), japanese, and korean, just like me. to explain this fully involves my own personal mixed race ancestry, so to save you from reading that rambling you can always ask me (ooc) about it if you want (:
- the things/people that keep han going are patches, his partners, and his friends.
- han bites others if threatened with no other way out, but it is never his first choice of defense. his teeth are pretty sensitive in general and biting tough objects is a bad sensory experience for him.
- pre-ARR, the best way to describe how han got into fishing is this tiktok.
 - on the topic of tiktok, if he had access to it, he would follow fishing accounts. specifically fishing supply company accounts, the type to make content selling you new fishing products. he also watches those housewife "organizing my pantry/fridge/cleaning the living room” tiktoks to sleep, and “pack lunch for my family with me” tiktoks to get ideas for food he can make for dates.

- han likes cold cloudy weather, because he likes to be covered up, so it's easier to do that when it's cold instead of hot.
- when han is in desperate need of help, he can turn to toyokichi, yujin, or tsutsuda. han can also turn to his partners, but after that he doesn't have anyone he trusts enough in those situations.
- han first meets yujin and tsutsuda, then he meets toyokichi later on. when he meets yujin and tsutsuda, they think he's a funny guy, and he eventually thinks they're nice as well. they found him sitting in ul'dah marking fishing locations on his map late at night after the girls went out dancing, and they were very entertained by his fishing monologue. while the two are both fun, he also enjoys calm nights with them, talking and eating snacks together.
- han meets toyokichi during the events of stormblood, helping him escape doma. he knows yujin and tsutsuda will be able to help him, so he leaves toyokichi with them in ul'dah while he continues on his journey so toyokichi can recover from his escape. han returns to the group seeing them all being friends, and is very happy he could help someone out in such a meaningful way. he grows close with toyokichi, and they become best friends, with han helping toyokichi get used to life as a merchant.
- the best ways to describe his dynamics with the others are: introvert duo (him and tsutsuda), i help you you help me (him and toyokichi), dumbasses having fun (him and yujin).
- i associate the “sad hamter” memes to han, as well as random animal memes.

- seonghan's name is pronounced like the word "song" but slightly sharper on the "o" sound, and han like the song "hann" by \(G\)I-DLE.
- he usually has a blank expression, he just doesn't react "normally" when someone is trying to make him smile and laugh.
- he has less pigment at the tips of his ears and ends of his hair, so he dyes them purple. he lets them fade over time as he doesn't have the time, energy, or motivation to keep up the dyeing.
- he has a beauty mark under his eye.
- he has a chronic health condition and gets tired fairly often, so he's used to being some base level of "unwell", it's just beyond his control and he wishes he had more energy overall. as a result of this, he naps frequently, and can fall asleep in the oddest places, most often when he's fishing which causes him to lose his bait.
- he doesn't really have allies in the fighting sense, he does have friends and acquaintances but he doesn't think they would come to his aid in the way most people think an ally would. truthfully, if he has put time into the relationship with someone, they are technically his ally even if he doesn't label it that way.
- the most beautiful things he has ever seen would be his partners, and patches, but honestly all fat cats are beautiful as well. han loves his partners and genuinely thinks they're both very beautiful, and patches is the one thing that keeps him alive usually so the beauty in that is not lost on him.
- he is so cluttered, he never has room in his inventory. he carries bait, fish, gifts from his partners. most are surprised that his inventory is full of fish because they don't smell, so nobody is really sure how he keeps everything from smelling or rotting.
- he won't cut his hair unless there is a significant loss in his life, so he lets it grow out and braids it as it gets long enough to fall in his face. the last time he cut it was pre-ARR.
- han loves to hate popotoes because he's allergic to them. he can get annoying about it, but even touching one or being in the same room with someone cutting/cooking them can make him have a life-threatening allergic reaction, so he thinks people can deal with him shaming them over eating them for a bit.
- if he got a praetorium-length unskippable monologue, he would talk about fish, fishing techniques, best bait, best fishing spots, and slowly transitions to talking about fat cat. the cutscene ends with him still talking.
- if he played stardew valley, he would marry Leah, the art stuff she does is cool to him.
- he doesn't really have a desire to plan too far into the future, he's happy to be with the people he loves, and thinking about the future just feels overwhelming to him.
- if he meets someone who is less advanced in fishing, he is very excited to teach them, its why he made his guidebooks (: he will help anyone out at any time, he will literally stay somewhere indefinitely to fish with someone if they ask him. he loves to help new fishers learn the secrets and tips he learned over his fishing career.

- every time someone calls him a hero, or holds a deep level of admiration for his WOL antics, he gets very stressed. he doesn't like when people have those opinions of him before ever meeting and speaking to him.
- he does a lot of parkour after interactions like those stated above, because he gets stressed out by being perceived in a way that doesn't align with how he sees himself. if you see him doing parkour, he probably had an encounter like that, and needs some time to cool down.