

Hi, Amanda

I've seen your posts about your sewing courses in the business advertising group. I'm a marketing student and I specialise in helping local businesses like yours boost their online presence and attract more clients.

I can help out with things such as:

Crafting engaging content ideas to showcase your courses effectively

Utilising visual elements to enhance engagement and capture attention

Increasing sign-ups for your courses by targeting the right audience

Help grow your social media presence to connect with people interested in the classes that you offer

If you would be interested in discussing this further then please get back to me within the next few days

Thanks
