My Appearance And How Others Perceive Him

- My family will look at me as if I am insane. Because it takes a special kind of madness and ambition to cast aside the mediocre lifestyle I lived. My brothers are both inspired by how much I have changed and grown in only 6 months, maybe even a little jealous. My mother is proud to have me become the man she always imagined I'd be. When she looks at me her eyes get teary and she can't hold her smile back, all she can do is give me a hug and thank me for proving her right, for changing my life and by extension hers too.

- My girl will see me and every time she will think to herself "it was worth it and I am glad that I stuck around and supported you" but she always knew I could do it, that I would find a way or make a way. That I would achieve everything that I said I would.
- My colleagues at work would look at me and think that I am so lucky or that I got rich parents, but they won't say anything because deep down they know, they can see that this was no accident. This is what dedication, hard work and focus looks like. To them I represent a dream, a reality that seems far out of their reach. I am on a new level.
- Other women will see me and think "his girlfriend is sooo lucky, I wish he was my man. Maybe I can get lucky too and go home with him" I'm a faithful man though.
- Other men will be like "shit! I better watch my girl around him. But I can probably take him if it comes down to it" and as I turn my gaze to them, they immediately look away, can't even hold eye contact for a second.
- I am literally oozing with confidence, I walk around like the world belongs to me.

My Day In The Life Stories.

- I wake up at 6am on the dot. Get out of bed and push the planet down 50 times. Read Tate's Daily email to start my day off right and then get ready to conquer.
- 50 more push ups, a cup of coffee and head to work.
- Before I even exit the lift people already know that I have arrived, they smell my cologne from the hallway. I step out of the lift as if I come off a set of a music video, looking like 007, smelling like money and walking with confidence. Every female eagerly waits to say good morning to me, I leave them all charmed with my charisma of course, why not with all this positive energy I give off.
- I move with the aura of a millionaire because I am on my way to becoming one.

- As I walk onto the floor everyone stops when they notice me. I can see the insecurity of the guy staring at me. They clearly wish they were me not knowing what it took to get here.
- I politely greet everyone and proceed to my desk to watch the MPUC and scroll through TRW, help some Gs here and there. I try to be a good brother and provide help to those that get lost, need help and provide value as all the Gs have done for me.
- After 30 minutes of that. I get to work, analyzing the marketing funnels of my client project. Look for ways to improve it and get more sales. I need to double my $5k revenue/month, BMW M2s don't buy themselves.
- I think of a strategy to get to $10k in consistently so that I can make it to Crown Ass Man. I know the requirement is only $5k but I want to be a bigger G than that. I work on my client projects all day and then leave work before rush hour to practice MMA. I take my teenage cousin with me because he needs a positive masculine example in his life, I can make sure he learns way faster than I did, make less mistakes, and mentor him to potentially become greater than me one day. I obviously won't make it easy for him.
- I get home and eat a succulent sirloin steak with buffalo wings on the side, have a lil fun with my girl and afterwards we get back to work. We analyze copy together and she helps me improve my copywriting skills. She is the first person I will recruit for my marketing agency.

There are some negative people in my life that I have to deal with.

What do you fear the most?

To be left behind by everyone i love and the people in TRW
To lose the ability to work, I enjoy work and achieving things, I love copywriting too funny enough. It would be a shame if it was taken from me before I even got started.
Not realizing my full potential, I genuinely feel like I can be something great one day.

What don't you want people to say about you?

That i gave up
I could have had it all but I was a pussy about it.

I wonder what he will achieve next

Looking back over the last year, what mistakes did you make? Where did you fail?

I was inconsistent throughout the year. I have a winning streak for 3 weeks and fall off for one week on repeat every month like clockwork.

I allowed some major opportunities to pass me by, like 3 lost potential clients

What 3 skills do you lack now that you have to acquire as quickly as possible to hit the next level?
