

After graduation I am going to Europe over the summer with a couple of my friends for just over three weeks to explore multiple countries. After summer I will be at Cabrillo College to get an Associates degree in Nursing and later pass an exam to become a Registered Nurse. Along the way I plan on working in hospitals or wherever I can to gain more experience to eventually work as a nurse. Once I've got some money in my pocket I would like to attend trade school and learn how to build/ renovate houses, with the hope that I can buy land somewhere in Europe and build/ fix up houses to eventually live in or rent out. I hope to find a new profession after some time that I truly love as nursing seems like a good fit for me but mainly just to make good money. It would be great to live out the rest of my days in Italy or somewhere by the beach.
