

"I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character." Martin Luther King Jr. was an inspiration to the world. He never gave up on his magnificent dream. Martin Luther King Jr. believed that one day people of all races would one day be equal, and live in harmony and friendship. King won a Nobel Peace Prize for his dynamic leadership in the civil rights movement. Martin Luther King Jr. was a peaceful, nonviolent man. His life was dedicated to fighting against oppression and segregation.

" Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere" Martin Luther King Jr's dream was that there would be no more scandalous segregation. He believed that people should not be judged based on the color of their skin. MLK believed strongly in his beautiful dream. Although he didn't just believe in his idea , he fought hard for it. MLK was arrested 29 times in his life. The Montgomery boycott was a peaceful protest against segregated buses. Even though he was a harmonious man he and his family were threatened many times. All these years of amicable protesting led to his famous " I have a dream speech". This speech influenced many people, over 200,000 people opened up their hearts and their minds. His speech endorsed peace and equality which had a huge part in ending segregation. He had a dream that he never gave up on.His determination and persistence won him a Nobel Peace Prize for his .This amazing speech inspires a numberless amount of people today, including me. I believe that MLK's "I have a dream speech" had an impact on every segregated place in the world. This inspires me now because MLK never gave up on that exquisite thought . Thanks to MLK children and adults of all races live in friendship and beautiful harmony.

Like I stated before, over 200,000 people agreed with King. Those believers are still following in the footsteps of King. However, another civil rights activist who stands out to me is Ruby Bridges. Ruby Bridges was the first African American child to go to an all white school. " Don't follow the path. Go where there is no path and begin the trail, when you start a new path equipped with courage, strength and conviction the only thing that can stop you is you!" She was threatened many times just on the way to school. One day Ruby forgot to say a prayer on the sidewalk and she was so fearless that she stopped in front of the crowd and prayed for all those people who believed in segregation ." The lesson Martin Luther King jr tried to teach us all :

Never judge people by the color of their skin. God makes each of us in ways that go much deeper." Ruby Bridges follows and Martin Luther King are inspirations to the world.

King's dream is still carried on today. It inspires me and it can inspire you too. If you think about it, maybe your best friend is a different race than you. If it wasn't for Ruby bridges or Martin Luther King Jr. you wouldn't be in the same school. That's why we all celebrate his extraordinary life. On Martin Luther King Jr. day many people have parades, marches, speeches, and so much more. All these people celebrate in his honor knowing that he helped endorse civil rights for everyone. " I have a dream."
