

Everything here needs to be updated

Forgive Me

The Soils

Soil: Clay Demonym: Clayist Leader: u/DervotNum4 Facts: - Values construction - Has a purple counterpart - Great Power	Soil: Sandy Clay Demonym: Sandy Clayist Facts: - Associated with National Clayism - Often regarded as violent and expansionist	Soil: Silty Clay Demonym: Silty Clayist Facts: - Know for legalised gambling with in Clayistan
Soil: Loam Demonym: Loamer Facts: - Values agrarianism and farming - Generally pacifistic - Great Power	Soil: Clay Loam Demonym: Clay Loamer Facts: - Regarded as an even more centrist version of Loam	Soil: Sandy Loam Demonym: Sandy Loamer Facts: - Hates being confused with loamy sand - Part of the Loaman Empire
Soil: Sand Demonym: Sandite Leader: u/Airihan Facts: - Associated with scavengers and cowboys - Nuked their own land to get cool post apocalyptic vibes.	Soil: Loamy Sand Demonym: Loamy Sandite Leader: u/NCA_Loamysandite1 Facts: - Hates being confused with sandy loam - Independent country, unlike sandy loam - Barren, only cacti can grow there - Recently taken over by Loaman revolutionaries	Soil: Sandy Clay Loam Demonym: Sandy Clay Loamer Facts: - Part of Clayistan
Soil: Silt Demonym: Siltian Facts: - Commonly associated with pirates	Soil: Silt Loam Demonym: Silt Loamer Facts: - Like Loam, values farming	Soil: Silty Clay Loam Demonym: Silty Clay Loamer Facts: - Known for stereotypically

- Likes alligators - Great Power	- Great Power	anti-sandite views - Swamp land known for its cranberry and rice farms - Clay inspired architecture
--	---	--

Current Political Boundaries

Kingdom of Clayistan

The Kingdom of Clayistan is an absolute monarchy, when the king dies those in his court decide which member of the king's family should become the new king. In the event that all of the court dies with the king or the king brands the court as traitors, those left alive and not branded traitors decide amongst themselves who should become the new king, the current king of Clayistan is DervotNum4 who was crowned king after a bloodless coup. Clayistan's military is impressive; they possess both the largest army and second largest navy on and around the continent. Located far in the north, the Kingdom of Clayistan currently controls the Central Clay Flats, the Silty Clay Bay and most of the Purple Clay Isles, historically they also controlled both the Clay Loam Hills and the Silty Clay Loam Delta, but lost control of them in violent pro-Loam revolutions. They also once controlled The Sandy Clay Loam Plateau prior to the Sand War. Prior to the Great Soil War negotiations controlled the Sandy Clay Mountains.

Loaman Empire

To the south of Clayistan is the Loaman Empire. Gone are the days of the Loam communes, gone also are the glory days of the Loaman Empire. The Loaman Empire currently controls the Loam Plains, the Clay Loam Hills and the Silt Loam Marsh, prior to the Sand War they controlled both the Silty Clay Loam Delta and the Sandy Loam Shrubland. The Loaman Empire is an elective monarchy, when the emperor dies the various internal kings and dukes decide amongst themselves who should become the new emperor, the former Loaman Emperor a man who upon coming to the throne took on the royal name of Loamsly III, many in the Loaman Empire blame him for losing the Sand War. After he went insane and disappeared during the Sand-Loam war his successor Loamo I took the throne and is the current ruler. The Loaman Empire's Military is small, there army is comparable to that of the Sandy State and there Navy is the smallest in the continent, there forces are also spread thin with half of them being on the border with the Sandy State and the other half being on the borders with the former Silt Fleet.

(Map of the Loaman Empire)

Sandy Clay Commonwealth

The Sandy Clay Commonwealth is a new state coming into existence on July 1st 2020. The Sandy Clay Commonwealth occupies only the Sandy Clay Mountains. The state itself is poor due to two primary reasons; reason one many soils at the conference that decided on their independence also decided on vast reparations due to them having started the Great Soil War, the second reason being that after their separation from Clayistan many Clay and Sandy Clay business members left to neighboring Clayistan bringing their businesses and money with them. The government of the Sandy Clay Commonwealth is similar to that of the Union itself as they also possess a powerless figurehead being as their head of state but below their King is the Prime Minister who is a democratically elected official who shares power with his lower ministers. Their current King is DervotNum4 the reasoning behind this was to maintain good relations with Clayistan, their current Prime Minister must follow the criteria of living within the Sandy Clay Mountains additionally no government official bar the king may have any first hand connections to the Great Soil War, their Prime Minister is Claysando-II.

Sandy State

To the west of the Loaman Empire is the Sandy State, a buffer state created by the Sand Republic after the Sand war. The Sandy State currently controls the Sandy Loam Shrubland, The Sandy Clay Loam Plateau and lays claim to the Loamy Sand Beaches. The Sandy State does not have a head of state, instead they have an advisory council made up of various important figure in the Sandy State, such as the war minister, the economic minister and the president of the Sand Republic. The military of the Sandy State is laughable, their army is poorly trained and poorly equipped with many of them still holding loyalties to either the Loaman Empire or Clayistan, their navy is the second smallest on the continent and is composed solely of outdated ships from the Sand Republic. The only reason that they have yet to be formally dissolved is that they are acting as the bureaucratic centre of the Soil Union.

Silt Fleet (Dissolved)

The Silt Fleet, is a sovereign trade fleet turned navy that maintains ownership over large swathes of land. The Silt Fleet currently controls the Silt Swamps and Silty Clay Loam Delta which they took from the Loaman empire during the chaos of the Sand War, also they historically controlled the Silt Loam Marsh. The government of the silt fleet is controlled by ten wealthy families, every five years the families get together and bid on who should be the next captain of the fleet, the head of the family who bids the most becomes the captain of the Silt Fleet. The army of the Silt Fleet is larger than expected for a seafaring nation, it is comparable to that of the Sandy State and the entire army is located within the Silty Clay Loam Delta, the Silt Swamps do not require an army, the Navy that they have is the largest by far although not the most advanced it would still beat any other navy on the continent. The Silt Fleet split into the North Fleet and the South Fleet on July 10th 2020.

Sand Republic

On the most south-western point of the continent lies the Sand Republic, the one who waged the Sand War. The Sand Republic currently only control the Sand Desert along with one Purple Clay Island called the 'Second Island', Prior to the sand war they also controlled the Loamy Sand Beaches but gave them up to the Sandy State after the other states threatened to start the Sand War up again. The political ideology of the sand republic falls under anarcho-frontierism with transhumanist elements. Basically just a post apocalyptic wasteland with a bottle cap based free market. The Sand Republic is a Republic in name only, there is one party and president, Airihan. Airihan, emissary of the void has held a tight fist on the sand military, but the rest of the wasteland is not ruled by any form of state. The military might of the Sand Republic is impressive given their small land area. They have the Second largest army and are the most well equipped on the continent, their navy however is small in comparison to those of the Silt Fleet and Clayistan, but they have no need of a fleet for defence due to the impassable mountains that block access to the republic. After the great soil war the true strength of sands military was revealed. Not only do they have a large stockpile of nuclear warheads, but also space age weapons and rockets. During the great soil war sand constructed an artificial wasteland island called sand 2 to retreat to. Shortly after, clay invaded the island taking it over and kicking sand out. The Sand Republic would not tolerate this, nuking the island and moving back in. Shortly afterwards liquid carbon attempted to invade the island, but while they stormed the beaches sand flew into space, colonizing mars. After the great soil war ended sand returned to their original land.

The Soil Union

The Union is the de facto superstate created shortly after the Sand War to ensure peace on the continent. The Union officially incorporates the Sandy State, the Loaman Empire, the South Fleet and the Sand Republic however it only really has control over its capital; Jerusoilum on July 18th 2020 the League of Soils seized control of the Clay, Sandy Clay, Purple Clay, Silty Clay and Silty Clay Loam sectors of the city. The government of The Union is elected in annual elections every year. The Soil Union's limited powers include recruiting the population of its member states into their army, providing education for the member states and handling foreign relations with non-member states. The Union head is currently 'living' in the capital and anyone who wishes to see him may do so as they please. On June 28th 2020 the Shitpost Party won the election for Union Head thus making the Sandy Loam cbboone07 was new union head, whose main policies include securing the independence of the Sandy Loam Shrubland and the Loamy Sand Beaches if they feel like it. Cbboone07 was assassinated on June 30th 2020 and was replaced with Free-sandy-loam

Tannhure (The Second Island)

The Second Island has gone through lots of change throughout the years. At first it was a purple clay island, but ownership was transferred to sand as a bargaining chip during the sand war. While the Sand Republic was located on mars doing the great soil war a group of miscellaneous soils claimed the island as their own, turning it into an anarchist commune. Upon hearing of this commune, sand allowed the commune to continue as they are. However, sand still owns the island, and if at any point the commune forms a strong government sand will retake the land.

League of Soils

On July 8th 2020 Clayistan announced their departure from the Soil Union, the following day on July 9th Clayistan announced the creation of the League of Soils to serve as a rival to the Soil Union. On the same day the Sandy Clay Commonwealth also left the Soil Union and joined the League of Soils, the next day on July 10th the Silt Fleet dissolved with the North Fleet joining the League of Soils. The main policies that differ from those of the Soil Union are those relating to decision making, decision making within the Soil Union was decided and voted on by a council of those involved with the Union Head having the last say, decision making in the League of Soils however requires a unanimous decision between the parties who are actively involved.

Republic of Silty Clay Loam (Formerly North Fleet)

The Republic of Silty Clay Loam (RoSCL) is the nation controlling Silty Clay Loam Delta. Originally known as the North Fleet, the nation became an official republic following the conclusion of the Shale Invasion (September 26th, 2020). Beforehand, the territory originated from a dispute within the Silt Fleet (July 10th, 2020). The North Fleet became a successor state after splitting off from the parent organization.

The current political system follows a representative republic model, with elected officials sitting on the Unitary Council. The military of the RoSCL consists of the North Fleet and a “minutemen militia” in times of need. The current office of president and the Captain of the North Fleet are both held by Skelly (u/foolproofboy).

Electing to take an isolationist viewpoint of the STC following the Shale Invasion and related events, the RoSCL has decided to avoid major conflicts as well as expansion; rather focusing on rebuilding the nation internally. Trade from various ports will continue, but outside of that, the RoSCL will be neutral and uninvolved.

Following the Fall of Lunar Regolith, the survivors were granted a section of land to build on as acknowledgment of their crucial role in the saving of RoSCL citizens. It has been designated as “Moon Town” and is located in the southeast corner. With the recognition of Peat as a legitimate sovereign nation, a port, designated as “Port Peat,” was built and granted to their people.

South Fleet

The South Fleet is one of the claimants to the Silt Fleet having been created due to a succession dispute within the Silt Fleet on July 10th 2020. The South Fleet currently controls the Silt Swamps but also lays claim to the Silty Clay Loam Delta. The government of the South Fleet is controlled by seven wealthy families, every five years the families get together and bid on who should be the next captain of the fleet, the head of the family who bids the most becomes the captain of the South Fleet, this system is almost identical to that of the Silt Fleet that came before it, save for the number of families. The army of the South Fleet is abysmal being the smallest army on the continent, their small army is entirely on loan to the Soil Union to be used however the Union wishes. By contrast their navy is impressive, although still being considered outdated, the fleet is tied with Clayistan in being the largest on the continent. Their current captain is Lieutenant_Silt who has become quite the totalitarian dictator.

Loamy Sand Emirate

The Loamy Sand Emirate is a small country located in the south west corner of the compass having declared its independence from both the Sandy State and the Soil Union on (Date). Throughout all of prior history the Loamy Sand Beaches were ruled foreign powers, however a combination of a severe power loss of the Sandy State and a seeming end to the expansionist attitude of the Sand Republic led to the long subnational House Sou to declare independence from the Sandy State as the first independent Loamy Sand Emirate, who cut ties with the Soil Union in favour of the League of Soils. The Loamy Sand Emirate has an abundance of mineral resources scattered throughout its northern regions but conversely has a distinct lack of food and drinkable water and requires those things to be purchased elsewhere. The Emirate itself lacks a standing army but at any point the Emir may call upon his citizens to come to his aid and form an army. The capital is Berloam, and the official currency is the Loamy Sand Dinar (abbv. to LSD). During the Shale War, the country was ravaged by the crash of Regolithia. In hope of recovering from the devastation of that war, Emir Sou II invited thousands of Loaman settlers to repopulate the wastes of the country. However, this proved to be a massive mistake and the settlers smuggled in arms and overthrew the government.

Precious Metals Compass

The Independent Nation of Silver

The Independent Nation of Silver is a nation situated in the north-west corner of the Precious Metals Compass, occupying an area known as the Silver Archipelago. The Independent Nation of government features an elected head who represents the people, the Silver Head rules for a period of 10 years at which point a referendum is held over whether or not to replace him. Prior to the arrival of the Soils the Independent Nation of Silver was a member state of the Ish Union (At the time referred to as the Northern Union) but ended up leaving the Union after the Union Council voted in favour of centralizing the government. Relations soured between the Independent Nation of Silver and the Ish Union following their departure, with most of Silvers naval force being sent to patrol the sea border. Following the arrival of the Soils, Silvers north-east most island, Neort was invaded and occupied by the Sandy Clay Commonwealth in what was described as a 'training exercise', soon after the Silver Head was contacted by an ambassador from the North Fleet requesting that an alliance be forged between the two nations, claiming that they had a lot in common. What then followed was the expelling of all soil diplomats from the Independent Nation of Silver and the formation of a plan to return Neort to Silver control.

Far to the north lies the Precious Metals Compass, a land inhabited by the Precious Metal People, once a land unknown to those of the Soil Texture Compass is now seen by them as a land ripe with opportunities.

The first interactions between the Soil Texture Compass and The Precious Metal Compass was when the Clayistan exploration fleet mistakenly landed on the southern tip of the island whilst on a mission to locate the Concrete Isles, the fleet had landed within the Empire of Red, one of the most powerful factions on the new compass. The leader of the Clayistan fleet was brought to the Empire of Red to explain why he had landed within their territory, the captain through his incredible diplomatic skills managed to convince the Red Emperor that they were the dominant faction on their compass and had come to this new land to negotiate for some new land, the Red Emperor gave his conditions, soon after Clayistan had a new peninsula at their disposal and a powerful off-compass ally. The news of this discovery quickly reached the Soil Compass and soon after the Silt Fleet began constructing ports all over the new continent with the intent on using them for trade. Following the establishment of the Silt Ports the Sandy Clay Commonwealth launched an invasion of the eastern most island in the Independent State of Silver as a means to test their military. The Lava Empire launched an invasion of the island inhabited by the semi-tribal Pale Greenish Yellow People, taking the north east they then moved on to the colonization of the north east of the island. Soon after Lunar Regolith launched an invasion of the Gold State in the north-east quickly occupying the region inhabited by the gold people, officially they claim that the invasion is exclusively for the acquisition of the gold. Shortly after the North Fleet made a defensive pact with the Independent Silver Nation despite already being in an alliance with the country that Silver is at war with. The next event that occurred was Liquid Carbon claiming and occupying the remaining land on Pale Greenish Yellow Island, this was done to recruit a large worker population. The South Fleet, after hearing of a new colony, sent much of their fleet north to attempt to occupy and annex the Redpublic. It soon became apparent that the Gold State was not a country to be messed with after they managed to push Lunar Regolith out of their country and launch an invasion of Regolithia.

Off Compass Soils

Introduction

An off compass soil is defined as merely as soil who has no place within the soil texture compass, many of these off compass 'soils' possess compasses of their own such as the carbon compass of legend however an equal amount such as dust claim a distinct lack of a compass to call their own. The amount of off compass soils is a hotly debated topic by scholars, several off compass soils such as Lava and Liquid Carbon have made themselves known to the rest of the compass of their own volition, however there are those such as Concrete whose existence is recognized by most scholars, but we simply know nothing about due to their isolationist attitude, additionally there are those such as Urite, a texture that no soil in recent history has ever claimed to have seen and is considered by most scholars as a work of fantasy. Overall if you were to count the amount of off compass soils described in legends you would get a number reaching close to or even exceeding 120, within this document we have categorized only the information on the off compass soils that are known to undoubtedly exist and maintain relations with the compass and lack a known compass.

OCSC

The “Off Compass Security Council” or OCSC for short was the organization that Liquid Carbon, Lava, Lunar Regolith, Gold, Sand, and Gravel, formed to protect the interest of themselves and the compass. Or at least, in theory, it was, in practice, the organization was known for selling poorly made weapons and engaging in “peacekeeping” missions with little regard for the consequences. Basically anything in an attempt to earn money. All members denied this of course but made little effort to hide their actions. Following the Shale War, most of the members had either left or were crippled and the organization was disbanded.

Lava

Origin Story

Before any soils and non-soils, there was the moon and the Earth. Twas only rock as Earth was a barren, desolate, molten rock devoid of all soil containing only lava. As the Moon sat in rest circling the Earth in wait, an asteroid traveling through the empty void of space after being propelled by the Soil Big Bang many eons ago struck the Moon. The force was so tremendous as to shatter the lunar surface into boulders that rained upon the untamed fiery hell of Earth! As the shower of celestial debris fell upon the world, the world reached the perfect conditions to create primordial soup brimming with potential for soil.

Soil began to emerge from the soup as the remainder of the lunar surface along with the regolith sank to the darkest depths of the ocean. Soil began to evolve, gaining heightened intelligence compared to the rest of the Earth’s inhabitants. The soils continued down their path of conquering the harsh, untamed wilds, all while lava laid dormant below them without ever being noticed. Over the course of a few millennia, lava started to seep through vents on the ocean floor where it built an island. The island continued growing upwards until the pressure became too immense and the island started to crack. The Earth trembled and shook under the strength of the newly formed volcano.

History

Decades later, with resources limited, parts of the various soil tribes broke free and flocked to the relatively new island. The early volcano worshippers were the first people to inhabit lava island and to thrive on it but as time grew on more cultures and peoples formed around lava island. The many tribes were isolated from the rest of the known soil world. The lava tribes fought for years over culture differences and land disputes. Countless wars were being fought on every front until the treaty. The treaty allowed the lava tribes to peacefully coexist into one empire.

United Peoples of Carbbonia

Origin Story

The Liquid Carbon People were originally from a planet called Caralzin. On the planet, the liquid carbon had advanced extremely far technologically though sadly most of these advancements were lost with the destruction of their homeworld. The cause of the destruction of the homeworld is also unknown. Before it was destroyed they built the numerous deep-space vessels that served as the home of the liquid carbon people. On their city ships the Liquid Carbon people developed a unique culture and system of governance. They have a monarchal council with 13 members, each with a section of the government they are in charge of. While in the void the United People of Carbbonia developed a unique culture that places strong emphasis on loyalty to the Liquid Carbon People as a whole. They also lost the practice of naming their young and now simply are known by their title within the government. They continued to nomadically roam space for an unknown length of time.

Modern Day

The United Peoples of Carbbonia (UPC) currently live on the Carbon Compass (CC). They claim to have discovered it uninhabited and with no reason to doubt them, this is accepted by the STC. Their total population and location are unknown to the outside world, this secrecy is carefully maintained by the 11th Dynasty. Their interactions with the Soil Texture Compass started when the city-ship Couesso crashed into Eroil's ocean, luckily due to the extreme sturdiness of the ship's design most of the people inside survived. The light warship Comotum was sent down to help the survivors. After seeing that Erol could support life though, they elected to attempt colonization of the planet. The single-member of the monarchical council among them began diplomatic relations with the compass. Seeing an opportunity to gain some land, they ordered an invasion of the northern half of the compass thereby entering The Great Soil War. In the war, they managed to gain the island of Sand 2.0 despite lacking any high ranking members of the 1st Dynasty. Little is known about the UPC's current goals, but it is rumored that they are planning something against the interest of the STC as they have been heard calling the soils things like "barbarians" in their contact with the STC. Their only known ally is their former colony/puppet Electrum, which has taken on the UPC's secretive ways.

Lunar Regolith

Origin Story

Before any life on Earth existed, an asteroid hit the Moon taking a large chunk off of the Moon. The lunar chunk collided with the ocean and sank deep below the surface of the water. The Lunar energy that was contained within the regolith tried to rejoin with the Moon and rose out of the water over the course of a couple millenia giving plenty of time for civilization to form before it got too high to access. The Earth's gravitational pull keeps the island from returning to the Moon and left it floating in the lower atmosphere.

History

Due to the entire country of Regolithia being cut off from the rest of the Earth due to not being connected, they became a technocracy to solve this problem. The only way off the floating island is by air which lead to Regolithia developing one of the best air forces on Earth.

Modern Day

Regolithia is neutral in the current political state of the compass although they joined the OCSC. Regolithia mainly is focused on research & development and advancing technology. So far they have invented hover technology which has been used in the production of the OCSC hover tanks. And are currently puppeted by gold after a failed attempt colonize the metal.

Gravel

Origin

The Gravel Commonwealth is populated by rejects from the Soil Texture Compass. Persecuted for having particle sizes larger than Sand, all manner of pebbles and flints and fragments and other such stonelets fled the main compass and laid themselves down in the southwestern seabed, connected to the main compass only by a thin isthmus bordering Sand. In time, enough gravel joined in that there was now a triangle as large as the main compass itself. The base layers of gravel coalesced and solidified to form a solid foundation, and the Gravel Commonwealth was born.

Government and ideology

The Gravel Commonwealth is governed by the Duodecimvirate, also known as the Dodecarchy. Twelve leaders, each serving twelve-year terms. Reelection is prohibited. Every year, one duodecimvir retires and the people elect someone to take their place. The annual election is part of a larger national festival celebrating democracy. All legislative, executive, military, fiscal, and high judicial functions lie with the Duodecimvirate. In the event the Duodecimvirate votes and ties 6–6, the duodecimvir initially elected with the highest vote margin casts a tiebreaking vote.

Culture

The Gravel Commonwealth is a highly heterogeneous society made up of stonelets of a wide variety of minerals. As the Commonwealth was born from escaping persecution, internal bigotry—bigotry between minerals—is generally frowned upon. Gravel citizens enjoy a high standard of living, albeit needing to import many goods from the main compass. Gamers don't exactly get the fastest ping when playing on Clayistan or Loaman Empire servers, either. The official currency is the Chönk, denoted with the symbol ☐.

Technology

Having larger particle sizes than any other soil, the Gravel Commonwealth has some advantages and some disadvantages.

Advantage: sturdy infrastructure. The Great Gravel Seawall is able to protect Sand 2.0 from any extreme weather.

Disadvantage: slow transit times. The Commonwealth Navy cannot sail long distances quickly, and so it has constructed the Graveltanamo Bay naval base on Sand 2.0 to improve logistics.

Wars and Conflicts

Sand War

The Sand War began with Airihan the president of the Sand Republic deciding that it was time to cease the endless fighting of the other soils, and with the help of his two trusted generals Sabkv and KpTroopaFR began an invasion of the entire compass. At the start of the Sand War the war itself was not widely publicized even within the Sand Republic as the war was never officially declared and many to the east and north of the compass only heard about a conflict breaking out and little more than that. The first region that the Sand Republic attacked was the Loaman Empire, a great plan for how to deal with their army had been written up by KpTroopaFR, however these plans proved ultimately useless as the Loaman Empire dissolved their army after the initial attack. Due to the Loaman Empire's futile attempts at resistance the next two waves of the attack were to be carried out simultaneously, with half of the army traveling east to attack the Silt Fleet by land and the other half traveling north to attack Clayistan through the Sandy Clay Loam Plateau. The journey east was mostly uneventful for the Sand army meeting little resistance from the internal vassals of the Loaman Empire, the only noteworthy event was the discovery that the Silt Fleet had declared war on the Sandy Clay Loam Plateau as the tribute given to Clayistan from them was hardly worth the cost of the men sent to defend them, it was only upon reaching the Great Wall of Clay that the Sand Republic had discovered that Clayistan had initiated Operation Wall Replacement and had repopulated the once abandoned walls with a full garrison. The final leg of the sand invasion was a massive naval invasion of the north of Clayistan using the captured Silt Fleet navy, the invasion quickly took the Purple Clay Isles and soon after the rest of Clayistan as the majority of their army was to the south defending the Great Wall of Clay. For a time Sand occupied the entire compass until the day that Airihan decided that in order to achieve true peace the occupation must end and the nations of the compass must be restored. The first thing done in the ending of the occupation was the creation of the Sandy State to serve as a buffer state between the Sand Republic and the rest of the compass, the Sandy State was composed of the Sandy Clay Loam Plateau and the Sandy Loam Loam Shrubland. Airihan also managed to annex the Purple Clay island Second Island from Clayistan to serve as a military base to stop Clayistan from carrying out offensive wars. Next Airihan founded both the city of Jerusoilum and the Soil Union, the city was to serve as a homeland for all soils and the Soil Union to serve as a union that would keep the peace among the soils. Many within the Sand Republic were unhappy with the withdrawal of Sand troops from the compass including the two Sand generals Sabkv and KpTroopaFR.

Rogue Sand Uprising

Many Sands were unhappy with the results of the Sand War, one of those Sands was Sand general KpTroopaFR who was also recently appointed to being the secretary of defence for the Sandy State. The first moves of the uprising were silent with all of the men in the Sand Republic under the command of KpTroopaFR being sent onto Sandy State-Clayistan border. The plan was to recreate the Great Sand war using the initial plan that was devised, half the army would invade Clayistan whilst a small arial landing would take the Silt Fleet causing the Loaman Empire to surrender due to now being surrounded. The initial attack was swift with the forces quickly taking the Sandy Clay Mountains from Clayistan and managing to launch the fighters that would attack the Silt Fleet. The uprising ended as quickly as it had began, as after the occupation of the Sandy Clay Mountains, Airihan the leader of the Sand Republic ordered general KpTroopaFR to withdraw his troops or the Sand Republic would declare war against him, KpTroopaFR not wishing to lose to his own people agreed and was quickly taken back to the Sand capital of San Palaguas. Following the Rogue Sand Uprising the the leaders of Clayistan and the Silt Fleet publicly stated their outrage at the Sand Republic and demanded that something be done to stop this from happening again. In an attempt to appease the other nations the Sand Republic gave the Loamy Sand Beaches to the Sandy State and replaced KpTroopaFR with Sabkv as the secretary of defence of the Sandy State.

Sand-Loam War

The Sand-Loam war began with a series of border clashes along the border of the Sandy State and the Loaman Empire. The cause of the skirmishes was the at the time disputed region referred to as the Loam Strip, the reason for the dispute existing is due to two different maps being used to determine the territory of the Sandy State thus creating the disputed area. The war began with the Loaman Empire sending a small number of soldiers into the strip in an attempt to gain a greater foothold on the area, although some say that the war was a ploy by Loaman emperor Loamsly III to win back his people after his horrendous performance during the Sand War. The Sandy State's response was quick with their entire army arriving in the region within days, soon after the Loaman Empire's army was there to match it. The war quickly turned to a standstill, with neither side gaining any real ground, it was then that the Sand Republic sent their top general and the secretary of defence of the Sandy State; Sabkv, to serve as a general for the Sandy State. In response to this the Loaman Empire sent the best general they had available at the time to the front lines, their best general at the time being emperor Loamsly III, who upon arriving on the border ordered the construction of his new house well within the conflict zone where he lived until the war had been ended. Following the disappearance of the Loaman emperor the Loaman Empire had no choice but to agree to the Sandy State's proposed treaty or continue fighting a losing war. The terms of this treaty included the return of all cacti to the Sandy State, the withdrawal from the Sandy State and the official recognition that the Loam Strip belongs to the Sandy State.

Great Soil War

The Great Soil War began on June 29, 2020, when Sandy Clay, frustrated with the newly elected Shitpost Party's governance, annexed Sandy Clay Loam, as well as portions of Clay, Clay Loam, and Loam. The Sandy Clay army continued into Sandy Loam, annexing it as well. In response, Sandy Loam and Sandy Clay Loam insurgents infiltrated the Sandy Clay homeland and captured the Sandy Clay prime minister.

Taking advantage of the chaos, Liquid Carbon launched an invasion, conquering Clay, Clay Loam, Silty Clay, and Silty Clay Loam. A Gravel-backed insurgence liberated portions of the territory conquered by Sandy Clay, and the Clay army began to reconquer territory lost to Liquid Carbon. Meanwhile, Silty Clay Loam, fleeing from Liquid Carbon, set up camp in the desert, forcing out Sand. Liquid Carbon then withdrew from occupied territories, keeping a small portion of Clay near the Sandy Clay border.

Silty Clay Loam established Fort Mud at the border between Sand and Gravel, and launched an incursion into Gravel territory. Meanwhile, Sand set up a new home at a faraway island, called Sand 2. Liquid Carbon then was given the desert, and left Clayistan. The Loam Union was formed to reconquer territory lost to Sandy Clay. Working with Clayistan, they forced Sandy Clay back to its original borders. However, an unknown Clay assassinated the leader of the Shitpost Party.

As coalition forces began to occupy the Sandy Clay homeland, Silty Clay launched an assault on Clay in defense of their ally. Gravel reconquered their lost territory and took control of Fort Mud. Sandy Clay was finally defeated as Gravel conquered the desert from Liquid Carbon. Silty Clay, faced with the threat of complete destruction, retreated back to their homeland.

A naval war then began between Sand and the united Clay and Silt forces. Meanwhile, Gravel returned the desert to Sand. They then called in their off-compass allies to attack the Silty Clay Loam homeland. However, Clay builders quickly constructed defenses to aid their ally, and the attackers were repelled. Sand, seemingly defeated in the naval war, abandoned Sand 2. However, they were actually retrieving nukes, which they launched at the island, destroying the Clay fleet and allowing Sand to return to the island. Silty Clay and Silty Clay Loam entered talks to unite for their mutual protection.

Liquid Carbon returned to fight Sand and Gravel, but Sand fled on rocket ships. Regolith then offered any refugees safe transit to the moon. Realizing the destruction caused by the war, all belligerents decided to meet at Jerusoilem for a peace conference. The talks were largely successful, resulting in the Treaty of Jerusoilem, signed on July 1, 2020.

Characters

Cbboone07

Cbboone07 was the Sandy Loam founder of the Shitpost Party, born in Sandy Loam Shrubland during the rule of the Loaman Empire, during the Sand War he witnessed the destruction of many Sandy Loam historic locations at the hands of the Sand invaders and then following the Sand War watched as the Sandy Loam Shrubland was ripped from the Loaman Empire and placed into the Sand made Sandy State. When the announcement of an all encompassing Soil Union was made Cbboone07 hopped on the opportunity and founded the Shitpost Party, whose primary goal was to stop other more powerful soils from interfering in the affairs of weaker soils, and to see the dissolution of the Sandy State as he saw it as a state wanted by none and the cause of all the suffering in his Sandy Loam Shrubland. The Shitpost Party went on to win the soil elections and Cbboone07 was promptly declared the Union Head and would have most likely begun the process of dismantling the Sandy State if not for the outbreak of the Great Soil War. Cbboone07 on hearing about the start of the Great Soil War immediately condemned the actions of those involved, he began organizing talks with the leaders of Clayistan and the Loaman Empire in an attempt to gain allies to deal with the rough Sandy Clay, after the first two calls were made he deployed the head of the Shitpost Party's military branch to go on a mission to capture the Sandy Clay leaders so that negotiations could begin and bring an end to the war quickly and efficiently. Cbboone07 would not live to see the end of the Great Soil War as he was sadly assassinated by an unknown Clay assassin part way through the war.

Claysando II

Claysando II was born simply as Claysando and he was raised in the Sandy Clay Mountains during the era of Clayistan rule. Money seemingly came easy to Claysando II's family as he and his Sand mother both lived in luxury within one of the kings rarely visited manors in the capital, Claysando himself had only ever met king Claysius IV on three occasions and as such had not given much thought when he was assassinated. When he came of age Claysando left home and traveled to the Silty Clay Bay to enroll in Roslund University, where he studied for several years. Claysando had received word of the Great Soil

War whilst he was studying, at the time it mattered very little to him that the army of the Sandy Clay Autonomous region had invaded the Sandy State and Loaman Empire as he had faith that the Clayistan government would resolve the crisis quickly and efficiently. Claysando tried not to worry when Liquid Carbon occupied his home as he held faith that if Clayistan could not help then either the Soil Union or their ally the Silt Fleet would, he was relieved to hear that the Clayistan army had returned and had begun pushing against the Liquid Carbon oppressors taking back their land. When he had heard that Clayistan had liberated the north of the Sandy Clay Mountains, Claysando began packing his things to return to the city of Sunbell to see how his mother was fairing after witnessing the war. It was soon after he arrived back in his hometown of Sunbell that he was informed of his mother's death, she had been captured by Union soldiers who had assumed her to be one of the Sandy Clay military leaders due to believing that they were getting government backing, she had died during interrogation. Another blow was dealt to Claysando when he learned of what had been concluded in the peace conference, Sandy Clay was to become completely independent of Clayistan and harsh reparations were to be placed upon them, what disturbed him the most about this was that no Sandy Clay had been present at the meeting that decided the fate of his people, he blamed king DervotNum4 for this failure and believed that had Claysius IV been alive they would still be unified. A month after the independence of the Sandy Clay Mountains, Claysando was struck with an idea; If only those who had not partook in the Great Soil War were allowed to run for prime minister why doesn't he run. Claysando now taking on the name Claysando II (to show his support of future reunification) was elected as prime minister of the Sandy Clay Commonwealth, as soon as he was elected opportunity struck, Clayistan had left the Soil Union and had formed their own rival 'League of Soils', Claysando II then put his hatred of king DervotNum4 aside and withdrew from the Soil Union in favour of the League of Soil.

Claysius IV

Claysius IV was the forming king of Clayistan, who became hailed as one of Clayistans greatest kings after his actions during the Sand War. When word of a Sand attack on the Loaman Empire reached Claysius IV he immediately ordered a fifth of the Clay army to the Sandy Clay Loam Plateau to assess whether or not to intervene in what he and the rest of the court assumed was the Sand-Loam war. When word reached that the Sand troops were entering the Sandy Clay Loam Plateau in large numbers Claysius IV ordered the army he had sent down there to hold them back at all costs whilst an additional fifth of the army was sent into the Sandy Clay Loam Plateau to evacuate the population beyond the Great Wall of Clay that runs between the Sandy Clay Mountains and the Sandy Clay Loam Plateau. The fifth of the army initially sent down held well, but eventually began to be pushed back, pressure was put on the king by the court to do something that would assure the protection from the Sand onslaught, it was then that Claysius IV began Operation Wall Replacement. On the day of Operation Wall Replacement, the old tunnels leading to the Great Wall of Clay were reopened, the remaining 3 fifths of the clay army poured into the tunnels, it was then that for the first time in many years the Great Wall of Clay was fully manned. Claysius knew the consequences of Operation Wall Replacement, the Clay Loam Hills that were well within the perimeter of the Great Wall of Clay and had belonged to the Loaman Empire for years now, and this operation would very much be considered as an invasion of the Loaman Empire, but he had considered that the alternative was much worse. Eventually Claysius's plan had proved the correct course of action as Clayistan was soon the only piece of land not occupied by Sand, then Sand took the north via naval landing. Claysius IV was not happy with how the Sand War had ended, and was bitter about the loss of the Sandy Clay Loam Plateau; a region that had been a protectrite of Clayistan for many years, but none of that mattered he planned to devote himself to serving his people and elevating Clayistan back to its place as a world leader. Some time after the Sand War's end Claysius IV and his three sons along with most of his court were killed in a bloodless coup, poison. After the massacre there is much talk of who the true heir to the throne is some say DervotNum4 is the true hier as according to Clayistan law his takeover was perfectly legal, others say the true heir is Claysius IV's bastard son who was living in the Sandy Clay Mountains at the time of the coup.

DervotNum4

DervotNum4 is the current king of Clayistan and the Sandy Clay Commonwealth and is a Clay originally from Clayistan. Following the end of the Sand War DervotNum4 founded the Clay News Association in his hometown of Claypenhagen. Weeks after the foundation of the Clay News Association, DervotNum4 and a small group of fellow journalists walk all the way from Claypenhagen to the capital city of Terracotta City, once there the journalists orchestrated a bloodless coup that resulted in the death of king Claysius IV and the placement of DervotNum4 on the throne of Clayistan. DervotNum4's first act as king was to move the capital from Terracotta City to Claypenhagen as to avoid the many would be assassins in Terracotta City as Claysius IV was very popular at the time of the coup. Prior to the Great Soil War DervotNum4 did many other noteworthy things, from quelling protesters to making naval deals with the Silt Fleet. On the outbreak of the Great Soil War DervotNum4 was on vacation with the Clayistan army, which was a long standing tradition the DervotNum4 had hoped to dispose of eventually, the vacation was cut short however when news reached them that Liquid Carbon invaders had taken most of Clayistan. When the Clayistan army arrived and stormed the shores of their homeland the Liquid Carbon hoard was quickly driven back to the point where they only occupied a small plot of land on the west coast, it was then that DervotNum4 turned his attention to the Sandy Clay Mountains, who had taken advantage of their autonomy and invaded neighboring regions. The combined forces of Clayistan and the newly formed "Loam Union" very quickly pushed back the Sandy Clay rebels and retook the occupied land, it was then that DervotNum4 was invited to the post war negotiations. DervotNum4 following his signing of Treaty of Jerusoilem, DervotNum4's popularity dropped to a new low, with critics of the treaty pointing out that a winning party to a war should not have land taken away from them, whilst the losing aggressors in the war are given vast swaths of land, DervotNum4 maintained the claim that it was the council's decision not his, yet more critics still claimed that the treaty would not have gone through if he had not signed said treaty. In an attempt to win back public support DervotNum4 withdrew Clayistan from the Soil Union, which was widely considered to be the most popular decision he had ever made. The following day amid reports of other countries planning on withdrawing from the Soil Union DervotNum4 announced the creation of the League of Soils to serve as a rival to the Soil Union.

Frank Stallion

Frank Stallion is a Sandy Loam from the Sandy Loam Shrubland, he grew up in poverty he holds the claim that his poverty was caused by the inefficient management of the Loaman Empire. The creation of the Sandy State was not welcomed by Frank Stallion, as despite his hatred towards the Loaman Empire he hated the idea that the fate of his homeland was being decided by Sand foreigners. At the outbreak of the Loam-Sand War Frank Stallion found himself enlisting in the army of the newly founded Sandy State due to economic reasons. Frank Stallion was quickly placed in a unit and shipped off to the front lines to fight against the Loaman Empire. Once on the front lines he quickly discovered that many of those in his unit also had negative feelings towards the Sandy State and having their fates decided by foreign powers. Following the end of the Sand-Loam war Frank Stallion began formulating his plan to overthrow the regional governor of the Sandy Loam province and declare independence from the Sandy State. He had only barely assembled his private army when a letter arrived from Cbboone07, a man who Frank Stallion knew only from his childhood; Cbboone07 had written to ask that Frank Stallion become the designer for the Shitpost Party, Frank Stallion accepted this position as he believed that a bit of publicity couldn't hurt his cause as well as he could re-brand his private army to the Shitpost Party military wing and when they lose the election he could start his revolution, they then won the election. After the election Frank Stallion was very busy expanding the military wing of the Shitpost Party. When the Great Soil War began Frank Stallion was sent into the heart of Sandy Clay territory to capture the Sandy Clay leaders, he was still in Sandy Clay territory when he received news of Cbboone07's death and his appointment as Union head. During the negotiations following the Great Soil War, Frank Stallion fought hard to both grant Sandy Clay independence from Clayistan and to impose harsh reparations from the newly independent Sandy Clay state. Following the negotiations Frank Stallion faced large amounts of criticism from numerous angles; Many from Clayistan were bitter about losing territory despite winning the war; those from the Sandy Clay Commonwealth were angry over having to suffer due to the actions of those few in charge; some within the Shitpost Party criticize him, claiming that his actions have secured the Sandy States continued existence.

Loamsly III

Loamsly III is the former Emperor of the Loaman Empire, who famously led the empire through the Sand War, some hailed him as a hero for bravely dissolving the army at the first sign of invasion from the Sand Republic, many more considered him to be an incompetent oaf who DISOLVED THE FUCKING ARMY at the start of a major war. Following the Sand War numerous rivals attempted to have him assassinated through various means, after surviving his seventeenth assassination attempt, Loamsly III in a daring move moved the Loaman Empire's capital from Loamduvica to a shack located in the disputed Loam Strip between the Loaman Empire and the Sandy State. Loamsly III disappeared for a length of time following the end of the Loam-Sand War, only reappearing much later in a food court that he went on to declare the capital of the Loaman Empire. Recently experts have suggested that Loamsly III is in fact clinically insane and should resign from politics. Loamsly III disappeared shortly after the creation of the Soil Union army. He has since completely disappeared and has been declared dead, with a new emperor being brought in to replace him.

U01aual

U01aual, born and raised in Clayistan, is a Clayist journalist and engineer. He grew up in a middle class family in the Central Flats, a province within Clayistan. He studied in Clay University on Technology, Journalism, and Engineering. He created the Soil Texture Test for political examination in the year 89, and in the Year 124 (Soil Years), he worked with King Dervotnum4 and created a website for the Clay News Association. U01aua1 is a member of the Lore Committee, and also a member of the Clay parliament, a parliament which has little power and is usually used for suggestions and opinions for the King. He also has personal beliefs about the reform of the monarchy, and supports the idea of minimal government and free market capitalism. He also opposed the Soil Union, Sand Dominance, and Socialist Communes. He moved to Eastern Archipelago, Purple Clay in the year 146. He served as Duke of Eastern Archipelago soon after, due to a decision made by the Elective Monarchy. During the Clayistani Civil War, he became a prominent member of the Pro-Dervot force. He then served as regent briefly, after Dervot fled Clayistan. After barely escaping a assassination attempt, he escaped North. He died in a boat explosion during his escape. His last words were: "Well, this was kind of expected. From journalist to Duke to Regent, my life is complete. If anyone here survives, tell Dervot that it has been an honour serving him. Cremate my body and pour it on Eastern Archipelago. Goodbye everyone, and thank you."

Political Parties

Coalition of Minority Soil Compass Parties

- Pro-minority soils, anti-big four
- Supports pebble rights
- Accuses Coalition of being sandphobic
- Endorsed by Gravel Gang
- Led by R4D1U5
- Originally just MSCP, renamed to CoMSCP after merger with CoMS

Coalition of Minor Soils (Defunct)

- Offshoot of MSCP
- Opposes sandarchism
- Opposes pebble rights
- Endorsed by the Steward of Anti-Sandism (endorsement withdrawn after merger)
- Led by profpoofpoof
- Merged back with MSCP

Clay Gang

- Wants separate zones for big four
- Opposes sandarchism but supports peaceful sands
- Supports off-compass justice
- Opposes soil wars
- Also referred to as the Clay Party
- Led by maniforgotpassword

Confederation of Clay States

- Wants union of Clay, Sandy Clay, and Silty Clay
- Allegedly puppeted by DervotNum4, which he denies
- Led by thermomole

Liquid Inquisition Party

- Anti-gravel
- Pro-liquid carbon
- Believes sand to be innocent victims of gravel
- Anti-shaly shale
- Led by MrMokele

Agrarian Party (Defunct)

- High mineral content
- Likes farming
- Founded by Jedidah Sloam
- Merged with the Silt Party

Compost Awareness Party

- Believes in adding organic matter to soil
- Accused Jedidiah Sloam of being gravel sympathizer
- Led by SeveralDogs_

Silt Party

- Wants to unite compass to prevent war
- Endorsed by Sandy Loam Times and SiltPost
- Pro-Jerusoilem
- Led by perfect-for-peckish
- Absorbed the Agrarian Party

Sand Party

- Openly sandarchist
- Suspicious ties to Gravel Gang
- Led by Airihan

Gravel Gang (Defunct)

- Denies being radical
- Wants to improve relations between soil and rock
- Dropped out, endorsed MSCP
- Led by HistoGraham

Party for Revertation

- Openly sandphobic
- Wants to replace desert with garden
- Led by ZuuLahneyZeimHirt

IOAM Party

- Has no political opinions one way or the other
- The loam of political parties
- Led by Your-bank

Farm

- Approved by the farm
- Dislikes other parties
- Led by nomad_ninga

Soil Diverse Sushi Party

- Run by 3 cats and a lizard
- Has a kitten rep
- Support free market
- Support soil equality
- No gun laws
- Led by GlazedHamRiot

Radical Block

- Created due to disagreements with the CoMSCP
- Wishes for better treatment and recognition of the minorities of the compass
- Wants to Recognize of off-Compass soils like Gravel,Pebbles,Liquid carbon,Compost and others
- Opposes Grainphobes,Clay Supremacists,Minority Exclusionaries and Liquidophobes
- Abbreviated to RB

- Led by GFeli

Party for Peace and Prosperity Party

- A Sandy Loam party
- Support the independence of the Sandy Loam Shrubland and Loamy Sand Beaches from the Sandy State
- Support communism
- Claim to support equality
- Formerly led by cbboone07
- Led by Frank Stallion
- Formerly the Shitpost Party

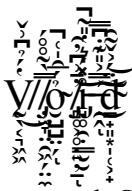

Beliefs and Conspiracies

Omniissium

In the beginning, there was nothing. Vast distances of space, many eons of time, all of Nothingness. This was the Age of Chaos. For countless measurements of time, space was filled with disorganized emptiness. Until, suddenly, out of the Nothing, there came a Something. All of the Something began gravitating towards the rest of its counterparts. It coalesced into a magnificent structure, symbolizing the birth of a new dawn - a new Era.

As the Something merged together, it grew larger and larger as more and more of the unknown Something coalesced. Finally, it had gathered such proportions of the Something to the centre of Chaos that it constituted a powerful being - the force known as Totum, the Everything. The Nothingness of the past was forced to the corners of the universe, shoved away by the ever-expanding might of Totum. Eventually, out of the Nothingness, an opposing force ca

The Cult of the

The : ancient, everconsuming, eternal. Craves dimes.

[seer]ism (disbanded)

“ All clay, aside from [seer], our father, was borthed from [seer], on the occasion of him drinking the Warm Milk which was gifted to him by best girl, Luna. All clay, aside from [seer], are borthers, and must work towards ultimate clay unity, for clay is the most solid and unitary soil. Because [seer]ism only exists due to Luna, we are friendly towards loam. Stan Luna. Praise [seer]. Clay is the truth, and clay is we. Godspeed, borthers. ”

Mini-wheatism

Praise be to the wheat. He sees all. He is all. Before the world there was nothing. Then there was mini wheat guy. We can only hope that he forgives us for our sins when he emerges from his eternal sleep

The Dustic World Order

People of this conspiracy believe that the Dustic Empire never collapsed, but became a secret organization instead. They believe that all things are under the control of the Dusts, and nothing can escape. They also think that various elections and events are planned by this group. They think that one day, Genghis Dust will rise again, and establish a Dustic World Order.

Claystianity

Claystians believe that the messoilah of [seer]ism has already come. They believe that he saved the Clays and brought unity and peace to Clayistan. They think that the [seer] has already prepared a kingdom for them in the afterlife, and that the holy kingdom would arrive during times of crisis and war. They believe that any individual who trusts in the [seer] can reach the holy kingdom, and view the King of Clayistan as a representative of the [seer]. It is the direct successor of [seer]ism.

Isloam

Isloamers believe that there was a prophet named ~~Ismael~~ ^{Ismael} and that a person would need to have an equal balance of Clay, Silt, and Sand in order to receive rewards. They wish to establish an empire which incorporates this idea, and wish the spread Isloam around the world.

The Old Lore

In the beginning, the world was lost. Not a square meter of clay, sand, loam, or silt could cover the face of the Earth. Asphalt, concrete, and other artificial substances had completely taken over. The world was choked by the iron fist of mankind. Humanity had forgotten to take care of their once fruitful planet. There was no hope left; no one powerful enough to defend the values that Mother Earth so desperately needed. That is when the bombs fell.

A small group of people, known as the United States Department of Agriculture, often simply referred to as USDA, had been working day and night to kickstart a last ditch attempt to restore their beloved planet to what it once was. For years, they had been manufacturing bombs of all sizes, some as large as the infamous Tsar Bomba. However, these were no ordinary bombs. They contained no explosive materials - on the contrary. These bombs were designed with one purpose: to reclaim the Earth. Each Jerusalem, the promised land. One day, the Four Soils shall see past their differences, and meet in the holy city. One representative from each House shall sit on the Grand Council, and unite the Compass to achieve a Universal Union of Soils.

For now, the Compass is riddled in chaos, hatred, misunderstanding, and aggression.