

Sharing is Sweet

Writing by: Lil Monster

Da gallery: <https://www.deviantart.com/xxinsanenightmarexx/gallery>

Word count: 800+

It was Halloween night on Palleth and plenty of grems were out enjoying the trick or treating of many others handing out various types of candy that they had collected and amongst them was Xeno who had been scaring others to the extreme to get his candy from others. He sat above on the houses watching others share with one another as he became curious in the exchange of candy, which was starting to give the grem an idea as he began to crawl down from the houses with his candy in his claws approaching others slowly but staying out of sight.

Many grems shared laughs and exchanged treats they had gotten throughout the spooky night, as Xeno popped his head out of the bush in front of two grems who stood back in a shocked look but sprouted smiles once they noticed the black scaled grem handing out candy to them with them taking it quickly and him getting candy back from them.

“Thank you Xeno, that was very nice of you” the two grems said before waving goodbye as he watched, giving a toothy smile and opening his eye that took everything in around him, it was off to the next grems to hand his candy out. This time he went deeper into palleth where all the shops were scattered around and the lively crowd caught his interest as a lot of trick or treaters were visiting the shops that were also giving out candy on the spooky night.

Xeno kept himself hidden as he tried to pick out others to share his candy with as he watched for a bit before moving forwards as he stayed above on the shop roofs using his tail to drop candy into grems baskets and buckets without them noticing as he let out a growly snicker, this way he could stay out of sight and share what he had gotten himself. Sharing seemed to be working as he watched the grems talk about all the candy they had received out of nowhere which made Xeno happy.

Continuing on his way he visited more shops continuing to hand out candy and watch others from afar, shoving candy down as he licked his jaws before using his tail once again to place more candy into other grems trick or treat bags.

“ Sharring , Funn..” Xeno said before crawling down the shop building as he blended into the crowd with grems completing his spooky looking features as they gave candy back to him as he shared more with them of his, he was starting to learn it was nice and fun to share candy with others instead of hoard it all to himself, it was the true spirit of halloween it didn't have to be all about tricking and it could be about treating instead.

Further into the night as it got later the crowds of grems started to become smaller as many of the shops began to leave the rest of their candy out for the last few who were trick or treating,

Xeno noticed and decided to go around taking the rest of the candy in his arms before rushing off as he handed it out to the last grem nodding in excitement to their reactions to him sharing with them as they returned the favor to him which left him with more candy for himself to take and enjoy. Many grem passed by and waved as they moved on with Xeno finding one more spot to sit next to a shop who was staying open a little later than others with him handing candy to the shop keeper before moving on to the various other shops that were still open or just closing.

After a while his arms began to feel empty as he looked down at his now low candy supply which meant he did a lot of sharing instead of keeping it for himself which was a nice feeling as he growled in happiness, crawling up one more shop and sitting on the roof as he enjoyed his own candy that he had gotten from the other grem that shared with him after he had handed candy to them.

“Yummy shareed.. Candy...” he mumbled to himself as he crunched down the candy he had gotten with a happy grin before shaking himself out and watching the last few trick or treaters leave to go home as they handed out candy to each other with xeno dropping a few more candies into their bags so they had something to enjoy from him but he kept himself hidden this time as he wanted it to be a surprise for them instead of seeing him and with that all his candy was gone and it was time to head home, it had been a long night for the grem.

While Xeno was heading back to his dwellings he spotted a grem who was sitting on the sidewalk and who seemed to have a ripped candy bag with no candy inside, along with this the grem who went by Sammy seemed to be crying and wiping away tears. Xeno made his way over slowly as he looked around seeing a group of grem’s laughing and walking away which it seemed they had stolen Sammy’s candy and they were now left with none.

Awkwardly standing there Xeno knew what he had to do as he walked over to Sammy who looked up to see a candy bar being held out by Xeno who was sharing his last candy with the grem who had gotten theirs stolen.

“Sharree takkee” Xeno said handing the candy bar over to Sammy who was now curious about him before looking at the candy bar Xeno held out for him which put a smile on his face as he wiped his tears away, sharing was the key thing on Halloween and with that the two enjoyed each other company sharing a piece of each of the single chocolate bar.