

The Newscaster Who Only Reported the Lead Ins to Stories Due to a Terrible Curse Never Once Mentioned In The Script For The Sketch

Int. Broadcast Newsroom. A local Newscaster sits behind a news desk. There are three cameras in front of him. The 'we're back from commercial music plays', as does the 'we're back from commercial graphic.' He looks to camera one.

Newscaster

It's sunglasses season, and you know what that means.

He looks to camera two.

Newscaster

Fire consumes a landmark building in the paper district.

He looks to camera three.

Newscaster

It's the viral video that's tearing up the internet. But what you don't know about its feline star may shock you.

He looks to camera one, and the pattern continues from here, unless it's funnier to mix up the camera order, which it probably is.

Newscaster

Scientists have a new theory about love, and how it relates to... chocolate.

Newscaster

Well, we're not used to tornadoes, but you know the old saying.

Newscaster

Three dead in a mall shooting, but it's the shooter who may need protection now.

Newscaster

Pretty colors.

Newscaster

Spring is here, and you know what that means: a visit from our seasonal cocktail creator, Martha.

Newscaster

The wreckage of a recently discovered pirate ship is changing the way many think about the scourge of the seas.

Newscaster

Wildlife encroaches.

Newscaster

If you're like the star of our next story, you love pizza. But that's probably where the similarities end.

Newscaster

Sherlock Holmes' Moriarty is getting a makeover, thanks to a centuries old clay modeling technique.

Newscaster

There is a bug on me.

Newscaster

Remakes of successful films are big business, but are they causing glaucoma?

Newscaster

These kids are pulling out all the stops to raise FUNds.

Newscaster

It's the sandwich that everyone's had at least once, but now it's being used to cure cancer.

Newscaster
