

Piebald

nPb or PbPb

- Sindow Piebald is not to be confused with other species piebald and the overall general term being used for white patches over the fur. Sindow Piebald has a certain look, very much similar to what is found in deer. It is speckled and spotted.
- It should not be confused with other types of white marking and leopard complex especially. It can look very similar and sometimes the only way to tell is to look at the pheno.
- Piebald can show on the wings as well. There's not a strict min/max or specific rules for Piebald on the wings, so as long as it follows the overall rules it'll be fine.

General Examples:

This first example is pretty minimal. At its most minimum it can show only the paws, only the belly, etc...

Maximum Piebald:

Generally, the eye is the only place where piebald DOES NOT cover!

- It may look similar to fewspot, but generally the spots are larger.

GROUP EXAMPLES:

Purple Piebald

Smokey Black Siam Champagne Piebald Wildspots

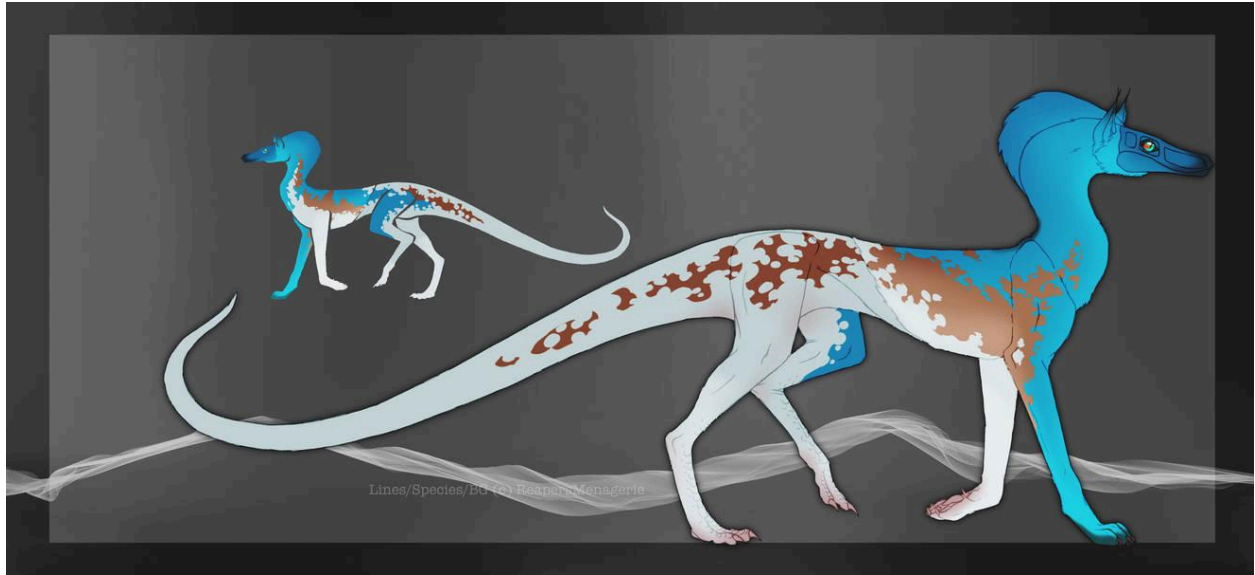

Silver Black Vertigo Piebald

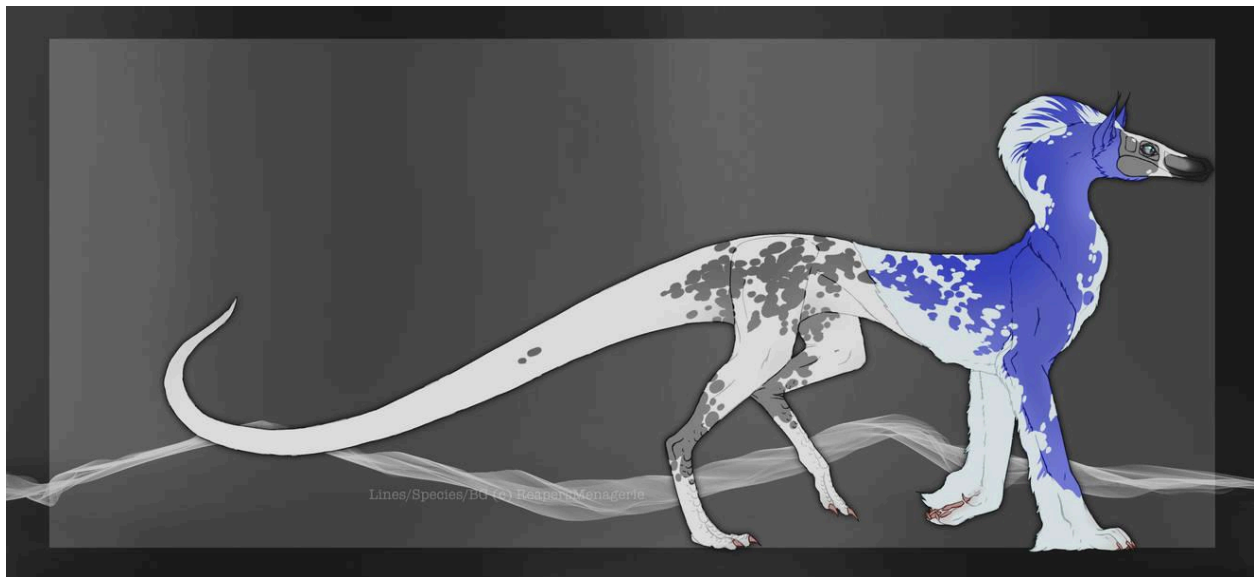

Chocolate Double Socks with Piebald

Smokey Red Piebald // Sky

Smokey Sapphire Piebald

Iridescent Red Siam Piebald

Red Raccoon Piebald