Professional Profile

Saleem Rizvi is an American attorney of Pakistani heritage based in New York. He is admitted to practice law in the United States Supreme Court, Federal Courts in New York and all Courts of New York State. He has been practicing law in the US since 1991. His law practice covers a diverse field of law covering litigation and transactional work. After receiving his Bachelor of Laws, and Master of Arts degrees from the University of Punjab, Pakistan, Saleem Rizvi came to the United States to pursue an advanced degree in law. His education at Columbia Law School afforded him the opportunity to expand his academic horizon and sharpen his legal skills. He earned his Master of Laws degree in 1988. Saleem Rizvi is deeply involved in community outreach projects, centered around law and justice challenges to immigrant communities. Due to his deep understanding of American government, public institutions, and society at large, he has developed a solid understanding of their multifaceted issues and strives to address them on private and public platforms. He has organized, participated, and lectured at numerous seminars and conferences on legal matters in the U.S and Pakistan. He has lectured at the platforms of various bar associations in Pakistan and has recently been given an award by the Supreme Court Bar Association of Pakistan. He is also a recipient of U.S Congressional awards for his community work. Saleem Rizvi writes for ethnic and international newspapers and hosts a TV show titled “Legal Matters with Saleem Rizvi” on TV ONE USA, which runs on Dish Network throughout the US. In his live TV show, he covers hot button legal issues, interacts with guest speakers and answers viewers’ questions. Saleem Rizvi has over 40 years of experience in broadcasting. He has appeared on many television networks such as VOA, BBC, ABC and CNN, speaking on legal and global issues.
