

Uma Jain is doctorate in Organisation Development from the Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad, and has been a teacher of organizational behaviour, a corporate Human manager, an internal and external Organization Development consultant, and an organizational leader for over last four decades. She has trained and consulted in varied areas of Individual and Organization Development, widely in India and other countries, including USA, Dubai, Austria, Singapore, and Mauritius. She has been the President of the Indian Society for Applied Behavioural Science and Vice Chair of the NTL board.

She has been a trainer of Human Process Laboratories at the Indian Society for Applied behavioral Science (ISABS) since 1981, and Human interaction labs at NTL since 1997 amongst other specialized labs and has been a dean of several of these labs. She has also been training trainers of T-groups for over three decades.

Uma focuses on values-based applied behavioural science work to make a difference to the world. She strives to live the value of “Using self as an instrument of change” in all that she have does as a human being, practitioner as well as writer. Her passion for building a society more sensitive to diversity and gender issues has led to her latest publication ‘Demystifying and Dignifying Singlehood: Life Journeys of Single Women Across the Globe’ published by LIBRI, UK under NTL Imprint.