

Greetings reader

I hope this finds you well.

This is my first email copywriting work and bound to learn the other skills that comes with this one.

Now I've been dodging this for a while now, maybe I thought this would be hard but it actually isn't.

What skill were you supposed to learn by the end of the week but constantly put off?

Is it hard?

Too busy?

Are you lazy?

What takes you a month to learn, I do it in a week. Someone else—in a day

Other people, hungrier people are getting better and getting more opportunities are leaving you behind.

Do you want to get left behind?

I know I don't.

I've embarked on learning email copywriting and I look forward to honing my skill.

If there's a particular skill you've been meaning to learn but keep putting it off, share it with me.

We can support each other.

Best wishes-

Coby Calero