

The P&A Senate Presents:

“They Do Not Pass the Vibe Check:

Giving Main Character Energy to Every Generation in the Workplace”

University of Minnesota P&A Senate Professional Development Webinar

This presentation explores how generational norms and values influence workplace dynamics. It provides practical strategies for building stronger cross-generational relationships in the workplace and will explore some key characteristics and formative experiences of different generations currently in the workplace. Come and join us for this timely and informative presentation.

When: Wednesday, March 26, 2025 at noon

Where: Webinar

Register at z.umn.edu/intergenerational\_relationships

If your email ends in @crk.umn.edu, @d.umn.edu, @morris.umn.edu or @r.umn.edu, please remove the campus designator and use @umn.edu as the ending of your email when signing up for this Zoom webinar.

About the presenter:

Jennifer George is a Teaching Associate Professor in Family and Social Science. As a first-generation student, she completed her BS in Health Education at Penn State, an MPS in Community Services Administration at Alfred University, and a PhD in Education focusing on human development in educational contexts from the University of Rochester (NY) at Penn State University. Before working in higher education, she had a career in school and community settings, working as a community health educator, after-school program director, and middle school health teacher, among other things. She is focused on understanding the intergenerational dynamics and interactions in families and our closest relationships and is excited to extend this to workplaces and professional relationships.

This webinar is brought to you by the Professional Development and Enrichment (PD&E) subcommittee of the University of Minnesota P&A Senate. Questions about this event may be directed to the co-chairs of the PD&E subcommittee: Alex Bajcz (bajcz003@umn.edu) and Molly Bendzick (mollyb@umn.edu).