Overview

The New York Upstate Chapter of the American Planning Association is seeking nominations for its 2022 Professional Awards Program. This Program recognizes outstanding planning achievements within our Chapter and by professional planners, students, and supporters. Awardees will be recognized by the NY Upstate Chapter at its Annual Conference.

Submission materials must be provided via the online submission form no later than 11:59 pm on July 31, 2022. In instances where submissions utilize links to materials, do not provide through a service that will time-out the link before December 31, 2022. Entries that are submitted with an expired link may be disqualified. You should receive a reply acknowledging that your submission material was received within 24 hours of submission.

The 2022 Professional Awards Program Committee (a committee consisting of one representative from each Upstate NY Section and the Chapter Vice President as its chair) will judge each submission solely on information contained in the submittal package. If you have questions regarding the Awards Program, please contact:

Eligibility and Rules

1. Nominations to the Chapter Awards Program can only be submitted by current members (in good standing) of the New York Upstate APA Chapter, except for student projects which may be nominated by the head of the academic planning program.
2. Projects or plans must occur in communities within the New York Upstate Chapter (including eastern Ontario and western Quebec). Nominations for projects and plans completed outside of the NY Upstate Chapter should be directed to the APA Chapter where the activity occurred. For project teams having multiple members, at least one member of the project team (having significant involvement in the project or plan) must reside or be located within the NY Upstate Chapter.
3. Nominations for individual awards (Distinguished Leadership, Planner Emeritus, etc.) must be for a person living or working within the NY Upstate Chapter.
4. Nominations should describe a plan, project, program, or effort completed within the past three full calendar years (January 2019 - December 2021).
5. A proposer may submit up to two nominations per category or subcategory.
6. No changes or additional information will be accepted after the deadline.
7. The Professional Awards Committee has the option to select multiple awards, or no award, in any category.
8. The Professional Awards Committee, by majority vote, has the prerogative to transfer a submission from one category to another.
9. Award decisions are final.
10. The Professional Awards Committee Chairman will notify the proposer via e-mail regarding award decisions.
11. Award winners may be asked for additional information/graphics/etc. for use in the awards ceremony.
12. Award winners shall be required to attend the awards ceremony; one ticket to the luncheon shall be provided complimentary per award winner not attending the conference. Award winners attending the conference shall not be eligible for a complimentary lunch registration.
13. Award winners will be invited to prepare a poster about their project or honoree which will be displayed at the conference.
14. Professional Awards Committee members are not eligible to vote on any nomination in which they have a professional relationship.

Categories

The Upstate Chapter of the American Planning Association awards categories include the following:

1. Comprehensive Planning
2. Best Practice
3. Grassroots Initiative
4. Implementation
5. Public Outreach
6. Great Places in Upstate NY

5. Description of how the project or person exemplifies the award category (long description)
6. Upload or link to plans or supporting documents
 - a. Photos are required for Great Places and Distinguished Leadership categories

Comprehensive Planning

This award is for a comprehensive or general plan that advances the science and art of planning.

This award is given for group achievement and may be made to a planning agency, planning team or firm, community group, or local authority. There are no limits on the size of jurisdiction.

1. Originality and innovation. Document how your entry presents a visionary approach or innovative concept to address needs. Explain how the use of the planning process in this context broadened accepted planning principles within the context of the situation.
2. Engagement. Explain how various public interests were involved and the extent of that involvement. Competitive entries demonstrate a strong effort to solicit input from those who historically have been left out of the planning process. Show how the nominated plan obtained public and private support.
3. Role of planners. Clarify the role, significance and participation of planners. Demonstrate the connection between the effort's success and increased awareness in the community of planners and planning.
4. Implementation. Address what steps have been taken to build momentum and public support for following and implementing the plan.
5. Effectiveness. State how your entry addressed the need or problem that prompted its initiation. Be explicit about how the results have made a difference in the lives of the people affected. Convey the level of effectiveness your entry can have over time.

Best Practice

This award is for a specific planning tool, practice, program, project, or process. This category emphasizes results and demonstrates how innovative and state-of-the-art planning methods and practices help to create communities of lasting value.

Any planning agency, planning team or firm, community group, or local authority helping civic leaders and citizens play a meaningful role in creating communities that enrich people's lives may submit a nomination. No restrictions on the size of the jurisdiction.

1. Originality and innovation. Document how your entry presents a visionary approach or innovative concept to address specific needs. Specify how planning principles have been observed, especially in consideration of your entry's effects on other public objectives.
2. Implementation and Transferability. Address what steps have been taken to build momentum and public support for your entry. Illustrate how your entry has potential application for others and how use of your entry's components and methodology would further the cause of good planning.
3. Participation. Explain how various public interests were involved and the extent of that involvement, including those who historically have been left out of the planning process. Show how your entry obtained public and private support. Clarify the role, significance, and participation of planners. Demonstrate the connection between the effort's success and increased awareness in the community of planners and planning.
4. Effectiveness and results. State how your entry addressed the need or problem that prompted its initiation. Be explicit about how the results have made a difference in the lives of the people affected. Convey the level of effectiveness your entry can have over time.

Grassroots Initiative

This award honors an initiative that illustrates how a neighborhood, community group or other local non-governmental entity utilized the planning process to address a specific need or issue within the community.

Emphasis is placed on the success of planning in new or different settings, with total project budget (including staff, consultant, and direct expenses) not exceeding $25,000.

1. Effectiveness and results. State how your entry addressed the need or problem in a visionary or innovative manner that prompted its initiation, within a budget not exceeding $25,000. Be explicit about how the results have made a difference in the lives of the people affected. Convey the level of effectiveness your entry can have over time.

2. Engagement. Explain how various public interests were involved and the extent of that involvement. Competitive entries demonstrate a strong effort to solicit input from those who historically have been left out of the planning process. Describe the level of collaboration between leadership and competing interests. Explain how those affected were brought into the planning process for this initiative.
3. Education. Establish that your entry has encouraged community leaders to revise their opinions about the varied uses and broad applications of the planning process. State the influence your entry has had on public awareness beyond those immediately affected. Demonstrate the connection between the effort's success and increased awareness in the community of planners and planning.

Implementation

This award emphasizes long-term, measurable results. It recognizes an effort that demonstrates a significant achievement for an area—a single community or a region—in accomplishing positive changes as a result of planning.

Nominated efforts should have been in continuous effect for a minimum of three (3) years, not including the time for plan preparation and approval.

1. Originality and innovation. Document how your entry presents a visionary approach or innovative concept to address needs. Explain how the use of the planning process in this context broadened accepted planning principles within the context of the situation.
2. Effectiveness. Indicate the level of consistency of this implementation effort since its start. State how your entry addressed the need or problem that prompted its initiation. Be explicit about how the results have made a difference in the lives of the people affected. Convey the level of effectiveness your entry can have over time.
3. Overcoming challenges. Address what steps have been taken to build momentum and public support for your entry. Detail any changes, derailments, or improvements throughout the implementation phase. Identify funding challenges or support for this effort. Report any political changes that might affect, for better or worse, the effort's long-term funding.
4. Participation. Explain how various public interests were involved and the extent of that involvement. Describe how your entry obtained public and private support. Clarify the role, significance, and participation of planners.
5. Achievement. Describe how the longevity of this effort has increased the community's appetite for planning and the pursuit of similar initiatives. Clarify the extent that this effort's sustained success has been achieved beyond its general audience.

Public Outreach

This award honors an individual, project, or program that uses information and education about the value of planning to create greater awareness among citizens or specific segments of the public. The award celebrates how planning improves a community's quality of life.

1. Originality and transferability. Document how the program uses new ideas or combines tools to address a demonstrated need for planning information or education within the community. Illustrate how your entry has potential application for others and how use of your entry's components and methodology would further the cause of good planning.
2. Effectiveness and results. State how your entry addressed the need or problem that prompted its initiation. Be explicit about how the results make a difference in the lives of the people affected now and in the future. Show how your entry has increased the understanding of planning principles and the planning process. Provide measurable results if possible or appropriate.
3. Participation. Explain how various public interests were involved and how your entry obtained public and private support. Competitive entries demonstrate a strong effort to solicit input from those who historically have been left out of the planning process. Clarify the role, significance, and participation of planners. Demonstrate the connection between the effort's success and increased awareness in the community of planners and planning.

Great Places in Upstate NY

This award recognizes an individual street, neighborhood or public space in Upstate NY. It must demonstrate exemplary character, quality, and planning and represent the gold standard in terms of having a true sense of place, cultural and historical interest, community involvement, and a vision for tomorrow. The place must presently exist; it cannot be a plan, a concept, or a former place.

Winners in this category are further encouraged to submit their Great Place to the American Planning Association for its consideration.

1. Great Streets. A street comprises the entire three-dimensional visual corridor, including the public realm and how it relates to the adjacent land uses. Submissions should document the street's character across this realm. Streets of different types are eligible, ranging from pedestrian realms through arterial roadways, but each should have a definable beginning and end. Special emphasis is placed on streets that are complete, that is, streets that service and take into account all users — not just motor vehicles.
2. Great Neighborhoods. A neighborhood can be based on a specific plan or the result of a more organic process. Neighborhoods of different kinds are eligible — downtown, urban, suburban, exurban, town, small village — but should have a definable sense of boundary. Neighborhoods selected for a Great Neighborhood designation must be at least 10 years old.

3. Great Public Spaces. A public space may be a gathering spot or part of a neighborhood, downtown, special district, waterfront, or other area within the public realm that helps promote social interaction and a sense of community. Examples include spaces such as plazas, town squares, parks, marketplaces, public commons and malls, public greens, piers, special areas within convention centers or grounds, sites within public buildings, lobbies, concourses, or public spaces within private buildings. As with all categories of Great Places, it is important to identify what sets a space apart from others spaces to qualify it for a Great Spaces designation.

NOTE: Submissions must include at least 5 high resolution images (300 dpi or higher) of the nominated “Great” place. If the photos will exceed the upload limit of the form, please provide a link instead.

Distinguished Leadership

1. Michael J. Krasner Professional Planner Award. In honor and memory of past Chapter President Mike Krasner, AICP, the Professional Planner Award is presented to an individual for sustained contribution to the profession through distinguished practice, teaching, or writing. This person must make their living in the planning profession.
2. Upstate Fellow. Recognizes AICP members for their outstanding contributions as a professional planner. An Upstate Fellow’s actions have resulted in demonstrably significant and transformational improvements to the field of planning and their communities. Upstate Fellows are long-time AICP members who have shown a level of excellence in the profession, including instruction and mentoring, research, service, leadership, or a combination of these. Nominees must be a member of the American Institute of Certified Planners with at least 15 years of experience as a member of the AICP and in good standing. NOTE: This recognition is not a nomination or election to the College of Fellows of AICP, or FAICP. While this award seeks to recognize Chapter members who exhibit similar qualities, the high honor of FAICP is sought outside of this award and by nomination to the College of Fellows. Our Chapter encourages eligible members who exhibit the necessary qualities to apply for FAICP to the American Planning Association.
3. Citizen Planner. Awards an individual, commission, board, appointed official, or citizen activist group for advancing and promoting the cause of planning in the public arena. Persons earning their living as planners and elected officials are ineligible for this award.
4. Elected Official. Awards an elected official for a significant contribution to excellence in public planning.

Planner Emeritus

Awards a retired planner, recognizing the distinguished contributions to planning over the course of his/her career.

Outstanding Student Project

The Outstanding Student Project Award recognizes outstanding class projects or papers by a student or group of students in planning programs that contribute to advances in the field of planning.

This award is intended to recognize exceptional work by the student(s). While it is appropriate to submit a project or paper on which a faculty member(s) has given guidance, the submission should be primarily the work of the students. Applicants will submit the award in the appropriate category and indicate if the project was the work of students.

Submission Information

Nominations must be submitted online via the link provided below and on the front page of this guidance document.
