Keynote general descriptions

High On Life / Neuroleadership / Angel's & Devil's Cocktail

David's latest keynote based on his Best selling book by the same name, published in over 30 countries. The talk is a mindblowing experience of how easy it is to change mental states in yourself and others - this in order to on command create motivation, connection, pride, drive, creativity, focus and much more. The key to the ultimate organisation from a biochemical and neuroscience perspective.

The Magical Science of Storytelling

Storytelling is one of the worlds most ancient but at the same time most influential communication techniques and works wonders in sales, leadership and marketing! We follow the story, not the person. This talk is the worlds most viewed TEDx-talk and will give a tremendous insight WHY storytelling is king and HOW to get it right from a science perspective.

Presentation skills / 110STEPS / Communication Skills

The most important skill of all skills is the ability to communicate! To make your voice heard so that people believe in you and your ideas. In any organisation, the greatest communicators are also the greatest winners. In this talk David summarises his greatest learnings he has taken with him during his 20 year career as a communications expert! You will for sure get mind blowing insight, humor, aha-moments and plenty of practical tips and tools which you can apply immediately!

Upon presentation of David's keynote

The moderator needs to use the proposed texts on page two in this document. They can of course add any personal references he/she may have to something they have seen or learned from David before. It is also crucial that the moderator or a manager sets the context for the keynote, i.e. explaining to the audience WHY this keynote and the subject is important to the audience, to the company
