

Sioux Falls Christian–Middle and High School Staff: DEEP HOPEs

My Deepest Hope is that all American History and American Government students will realize how important it is to learn about forgiveness and the acceptance of forgiveness from a Biblical Perspective that has and will continue throughout all times.

My students know where to find Jesus before they leave my room for the last time.

My deepest hope is that through music, we will grow together in cooperation and community, tuning both our instruments and ourselves to better praise and glorify God.

My deepest hope is that we will discover God's character in the very big and the very small parts of creation, recognize ourselves as His image reflectors, and use those shared qualities to serve others.

My deepest hope is that students will find joy in developing their musical gifts as a community.

My deepest hope is that everyone will understand that each person learns differently. God made you who you are, on purpose, for a purpose; to glorify Him.

My deepest hope is to provide students with a solid and enjoyable foundation in the Spanish language and Hispanic cultures through a Biblical worldview that helps them make meaningful connections between their study of Spanish and their relationships with God and with others.

My deepest hope is for students to know and trust the living God - affirming the truth and dependability of His Word - the Bible.

My deepest hope is for students to appreciate the complex beauty of our minds - made in God's own image- damaged by sin - renewable in Christ Jesus.

My deepest hope is for students to see and delight in God's creative beauty and design - and to join in the fun.

My deepest hope is that students see God for who He really is (in all His majesty, power, and glory) and as a result grow in their love for Him and His Word, living a life to magnify Him.

My deepest hope for my middle school Bible class students at SFC is that each boy and girl will develop an intimate, personal, and life-long relationship with God.

As a music teacher, my deepest hope is that my students will discover how they can use music and their other talents to share God's grace and love with their community and the world.

My deepest hope is that we would choose to make technology our servant and not our master, using it in ways that glorify the Creator.

My deepest hope is that students will see Math as a tool to experience the order and beauty of God's creation and that they will consider it a privilege that God has given us minds to learn and discover.

My deepest hope is for us to consistently feed on and increasingly live by God's Word in all seasons of life.

My deepest hope is that my students will honor God by maintaining a healthy lifestyle to better equip them for lifelong service to Him.

My deep hope is to increase our student's sense of wonder, and explore more about who God made them to be through the gift of creating ART.

My deepest hope is that what students read and the language they use will be measured according to God's Word for the purpose of pointing themselves and others to the truth of the Gospel.

My deepest hope is that students will see language and literature as a powerful way to encourage others, to glorify God pointing others to the Lord, and to recognize and tell their stories as part of God's grand story for His people.

My Deepest Hope is for staff and students to be intentional about living out their faith courageously by loving God, loving their neighbor, and impacting their world.

My deepest hope is for my students to be part of the equation - one who perseveres through problem solving and appreciates the intelligence and complexity of the brain God has blessed us with.

My deepest hope is that students will recognize that God has given them all their resources and they will glorify Him with their resources in all they do.

My deepest hope is that students will be willing to put effort into their singing, motivated by an innate desire to praise God with the voice and the talents that He has created in them.

My Deepest Hope is to enable students to become independent learners through the development of problem-solving skills, in order to see the Creator's masterful presence/design in all aspects of life.

My deepest hope is that each person understands the value that God put into all of his creation and worship him for that in how they live.

My deepest hope is for my students to be bold, love deeply, hope joyfully, and serve faithfully.

My deepest hope is that everyone will understand that each person learns differently. God made you who you are on purpose, for a purpose, to glorify Him.

May my learning be a window into the world. May I see the world with the eyes and perspective of a Christian. May this new understanding help me to become a more effective disciple.

My deep hope is that the students will glorify God by taking the seeds sown, responsibility and organization, and would be able to apply these skills to all areas of their life.

My deep hope is that students know that God created the world and everything in it. Human beings are the pinnacle of His creation. God gave us life, literally breathed life into us.

My deepest hope is to encourage, support, and inspire learners to continue to go deeper in Tft journey, so that SFC can become more and more distinctly Christian in all we do.

My deepest hope is that my students do not absorb beliefs, but that they question, research and create their own beliefs, so when they go through the tests of life they will draw the conclusion on their own that Jesus Christ is Lord.

My deepest hope is that students will recognize that they have been created by God on purpose and that they will respond by living a life of purpose that brings glory to God.

My deepest hope is that I can have a positive impact on student's lives in the interaction that I have with them on a daily basis. Through my past experiences, I am hopeful to be able to encourage and guide them that positive things can come with God's leading from even the most difficult and challenging situations.

My deepest hope is that students will understand how their identity and purpose is rooted in Christ which transforms hearts and how that will impact their response to each victory and trial that comes their way.

My deepest hope for my students is they each have a SPIRIT-FILLED DESIRE to walk with JESUS.

My deepest hope is that students see proof of God in all things, even the small, everyday glimpses - including in themselves.

My deepest hope is that students explore and put into action what it means to be a true neighbor lover in their pursuit of being like Christ.

My deepest hope is that my students will be reminded of the purpose and order our universe has as God continues to faithfully hold everything in place.

My deepest hope is that students see God for who He really is (in all His majesty, power, and glory) and as a result grow in their love for Him and His Word, living a life to magnify Him.

My deepest hope is that my students will honor God by maintaining a healthy lifestyle to better equip them for lifelong service to Him.

My deepest hope is that students will see Math as a tool to experience the order and beauty of God's creation and that they will consider it a privilege that God has given us minds to learn and discover.

My deep hope for my students is that they trust the various seasons of life and their transitions as the times to learn more about who they are and whose they are in Him.

My deep hope for my students is that they can identify the individual strengths given to them by God and answer God's call to use them for His glory in unique ways.

My deepest hope is that students truly grasp the unconditional depth of Christ's love for them, and in turn, are empowered to live courageously and pursue God's redeeming work in the world.

My deepest hope for my students is they will learn to see, feel, and express the great beauty God created within them.

My deepest hope is that students will observe, explore, and discover God's creative work.
