- Planning time for our Tutorial periods- To support targeted academic interventions and ensure all students have access to timely and effective support, Browning High School will allocate 30 hours of planning time annually for the teacher responsible for designing our weekly tutorial period schedule. This teacher plays a critical role in coordinating interventions across departments, using assessment data and teacher input to place students in appropriate tutorial sessions that address their specific learning needs. The planning time allows for thoughtful alignment of instructional support, effective collaboration with staff, and the ongoing refinement of the tutorial structure to maximize its impact. By providing dedicated time for this work, we are ensuring that the tutorial period remains a responsive, data-driven system that helps close learning gaps and accelerates student progress. Tutorial period-up to 30 hours $2915 from Title I

	for the ELA and Math departments to meet three times per year, for up to one hour each session. One of the three sessions will be embedded in our existing meeting structure. This time will be used to review student performance data, identify learning gaps, and align reteach and retake opportunities across each department. These sessions are designed to strengthen our commitment to mastery-based learning by allowing teachers to collaboratively analyze assessment data, plan targeted interventions, and ensure consistent grading and retake practices that support student growth. By intentionally focusing on reteach and retake alignment, departments will be better equipped to provide timely and effective academic support. The planning sessions will occur in the fall, winter, and spring, and department leads will be responsible for submitting a summary of key discussion points, identified strategies, and next steps to administration. These summaries will help monitor progress and ensure alignment with our broader instructional goals, which will also be reviewed through ILT and CIE structures.
