
Key

Label/Link
Definition
[Image]

A

Abrosexual
A term wherein one's sexual orientation fluctuates over time. One may be completely asexual one day, and then bisexual or sapphic the next, then pansexual the day after, for example.

Achillean
A romantic or sexual orientation wherein a non-woman is primarily attracted to non-women; more commonly known as the more inclusive form of gay men, although it could also be used as an umbrella term for masc-aligned attraction.

Example: Omnisexuals with a preference towards men and nonbinary people.

Aegoromantic

A romantic orientation under the aromantic spectrum wherein one experiences a disconnect between romantic attraction and romantic fantasies.

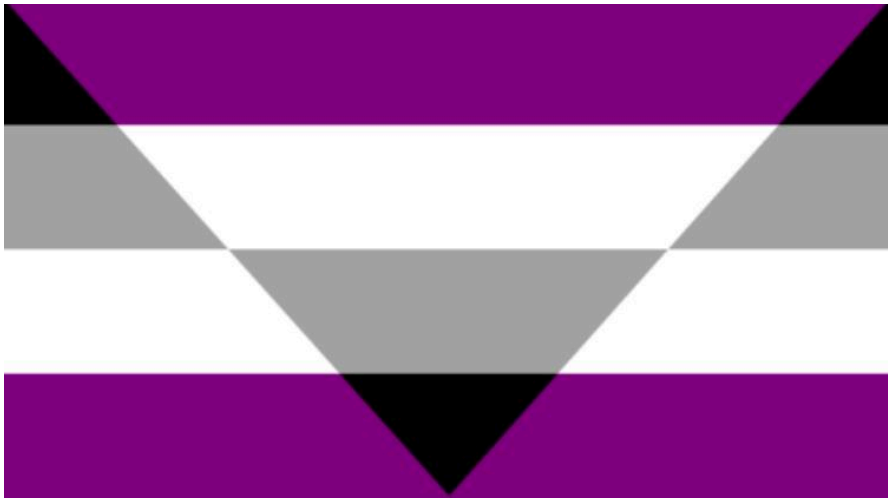

Example: Fantasizing about a romantic relationship in an idealistic manner, but is indifferent or repulsed at the idea of engaging in real romantic relationships.

Aegosexual

A sexual orientation under the asexual spectrum wherein one experiences a disconnect between sexual attraction and arousal/fantasy; oftentimes one feels indifferent or repulsed at the concept of physical sex but engaging in sexual fantasies.

Example: Fantasizing about engaging in sexual activity with a faceless individual, but being indifferent to real sexual relationships outside of said fantasies.

Alloromantic

A romantic orientation wherein one is not on the aromantic spectrum and thus can feel romantic attraction towards others.

Aromantic

A romantic orientation wherein one experiences little to no romantic attraction. Aromantic is a spectrum/umbrella term as well as its own label.

B

Biromantic
A romantic orientation wherein one experiences romantic attraction towards two (or more) genders.

Bisexual
A sexual orientation wherein one experiences sexual attraction towards two (or more) genders.

C

Cupioromantic

A romantic orientation wherein one desires the idea of a romantic relationship but feels little to no romantic attraction.

Cupiosexual

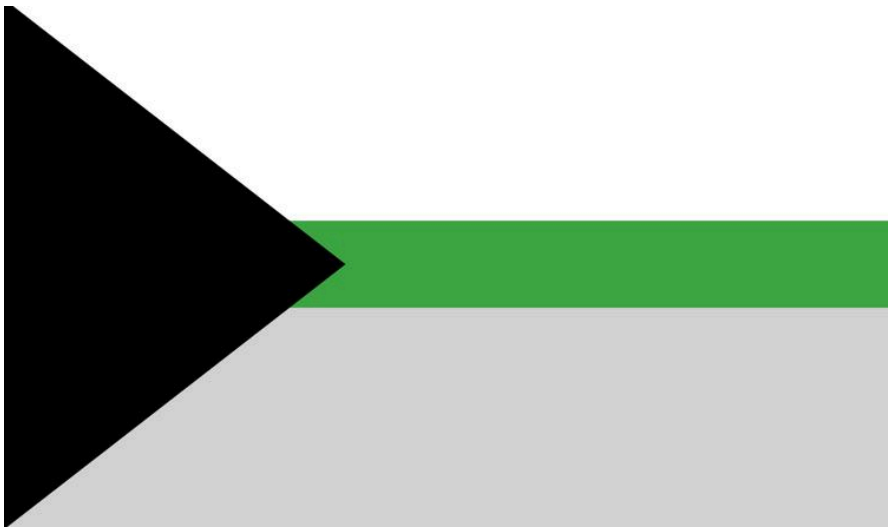

A sexual orientation wherein one desires the idea of a sexual relationship but feels little to no sexual attraction.

D

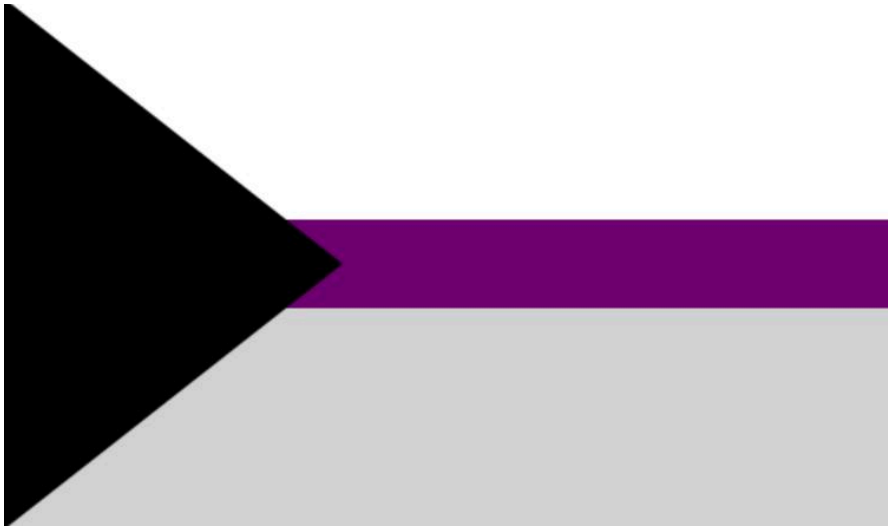

Demiromantic

A romantic orientation wherein one cannot feel romantic attraction until an emotional bond has been established.

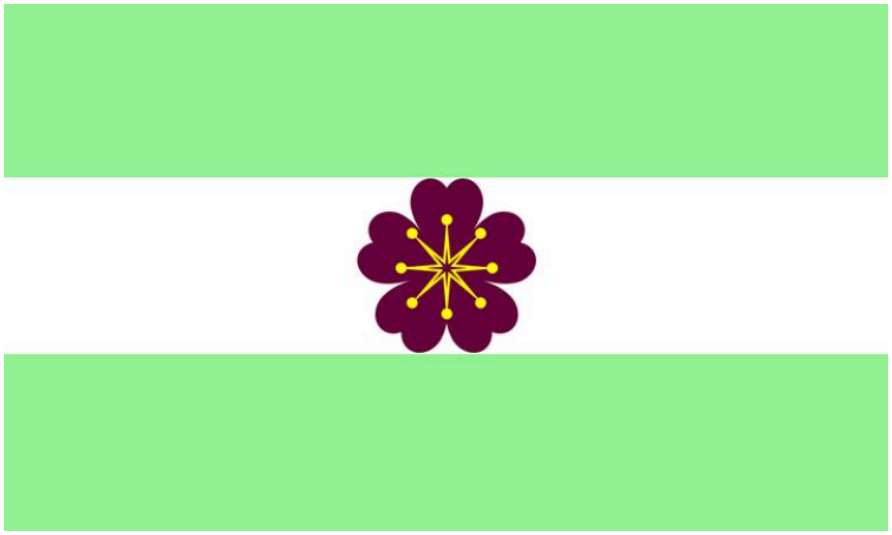

Demisexual

A sexual orientation wherein one cannot feel sexual attraction until an emotional bond has been established.

Diamoric

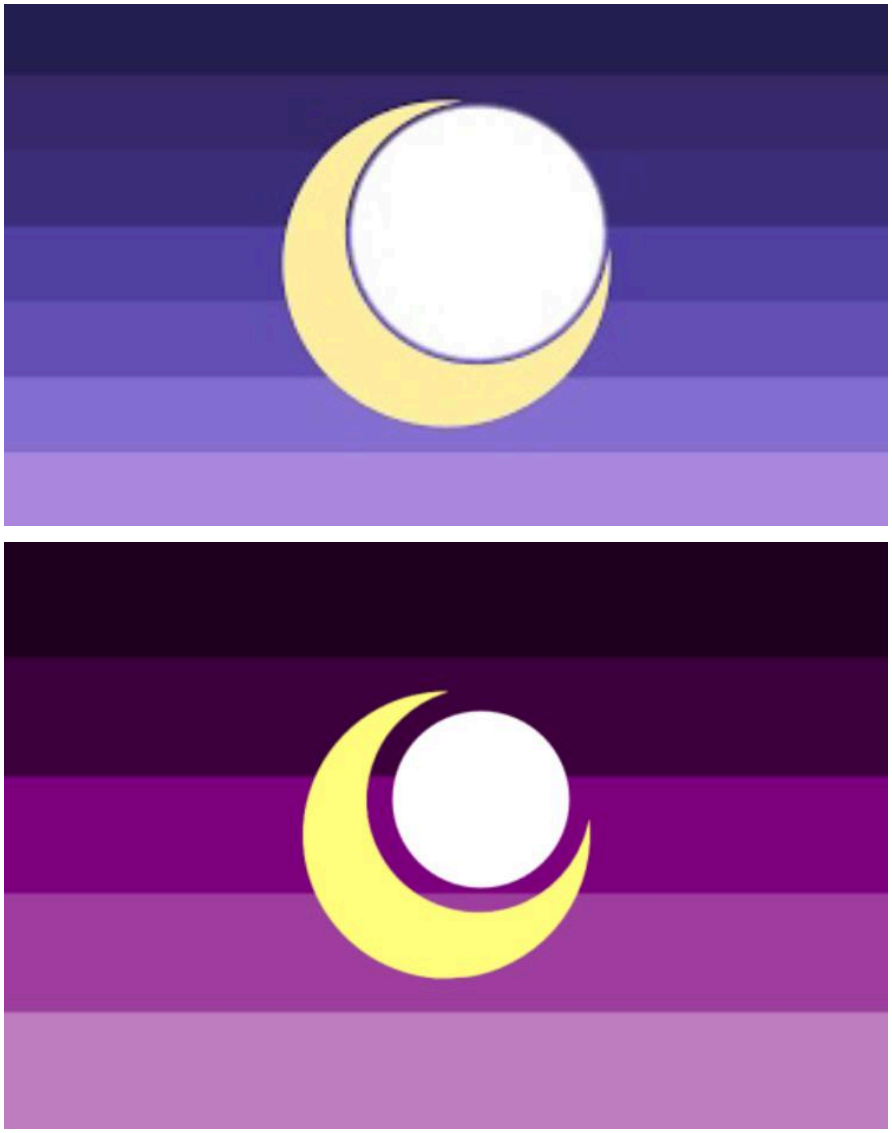

A romantic or sexual orientation wherein a nonbinary individual experiences attraction to others in a way that cannot be described by the binary of straight or gay.

E

Enbian

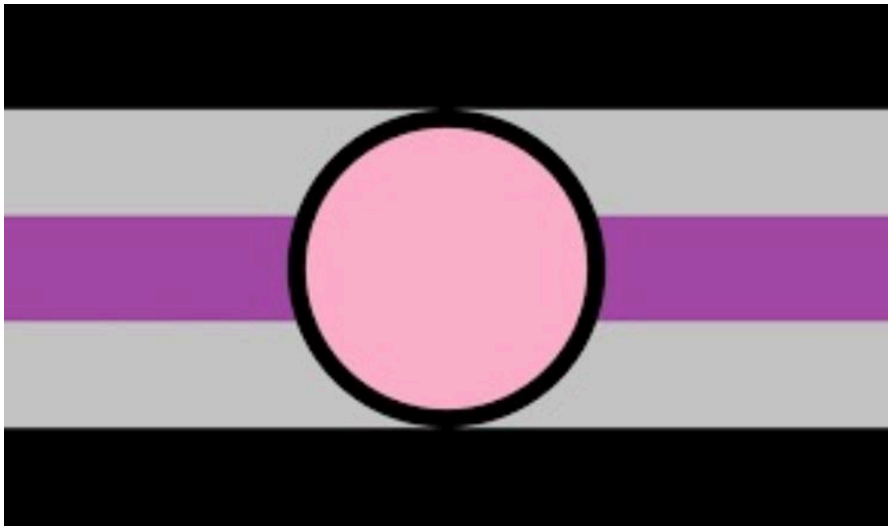

A romantic or sexual orientation wherein a nonbinary (enby) person is attracted to other nonbinary people, either exclusively or in conjunction with attraction to other genders.

F

Fictosexual

A sexual orientation under the asexual umbrella wherein one is primarily or exclusively attracted to fictional characters.

G

Gynesexual

A sexual orientation wherein one, of any gender, feels sexual attraction towards women and/or femininity.

H

Heteroqueer

A romantic or sexual orientation wherein one is attracted to the opposite gender, or a gender different from their own, but in a way that is gay/queer in nature.

[Heteromantic]

A romantic orientation wherein one is attracted to the gender opposite or different to their own

Heterosexual

A sexual orientation wherein one is attracted to the gender opposite or different to their own

I

J

K

Kymenic

A term wherein one's orientation is fixed/static, so whatever gender(s) one is attracted to does not change, although the intensity of that attraction may still fluctuate. An opposite term to orientations such as abrosexual or homoflexible.

L

Lesbian

A romantic or sexual orientation wherein a non-man is primarily attracted to non-men; more commonly known as a woman who is exclusively attracted to women.

[Lesboy]

A romantic or sexual orientation wherein a masc-gendered individual is attracted to fem-gendered individuals in a gay/queer way.

M

N

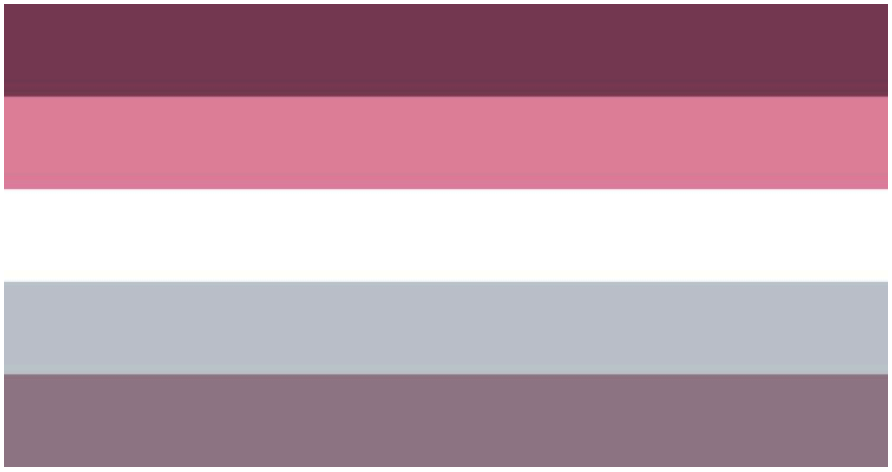

[Nebularomantic]

A neurodivergent-exclusive orientation similar to quoiromantic, wherein one has difficulty differentiating between platonic and romantic attraction.

Nebularose

A neurodivergent-exclusive orientation wherein one has difficulty differentiating between and/or identifying platonic, romantic, and sexual attraction. A combination of nebularomantic and nebulasexual.

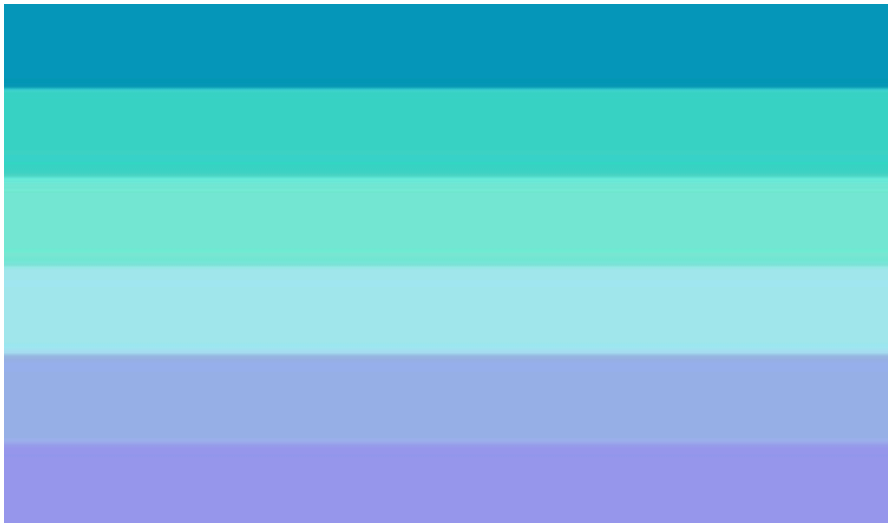

Nebulasexual

A neurodivergent-exclusive orientation similar to quoisexual, wherein one has difficulty identifying feelings of sexual attraction.

Neptunic

A romantic or sexual orientation wherein one is attracted to fem-aligned and neutral genders, regardless of one's own gender identity

O

Omnisexual

A sexual orientation wherein one is attracted to all genders, but gender plays a factor into one's attraction, such as a preference or differing type of attraction.

Oriented Aroace

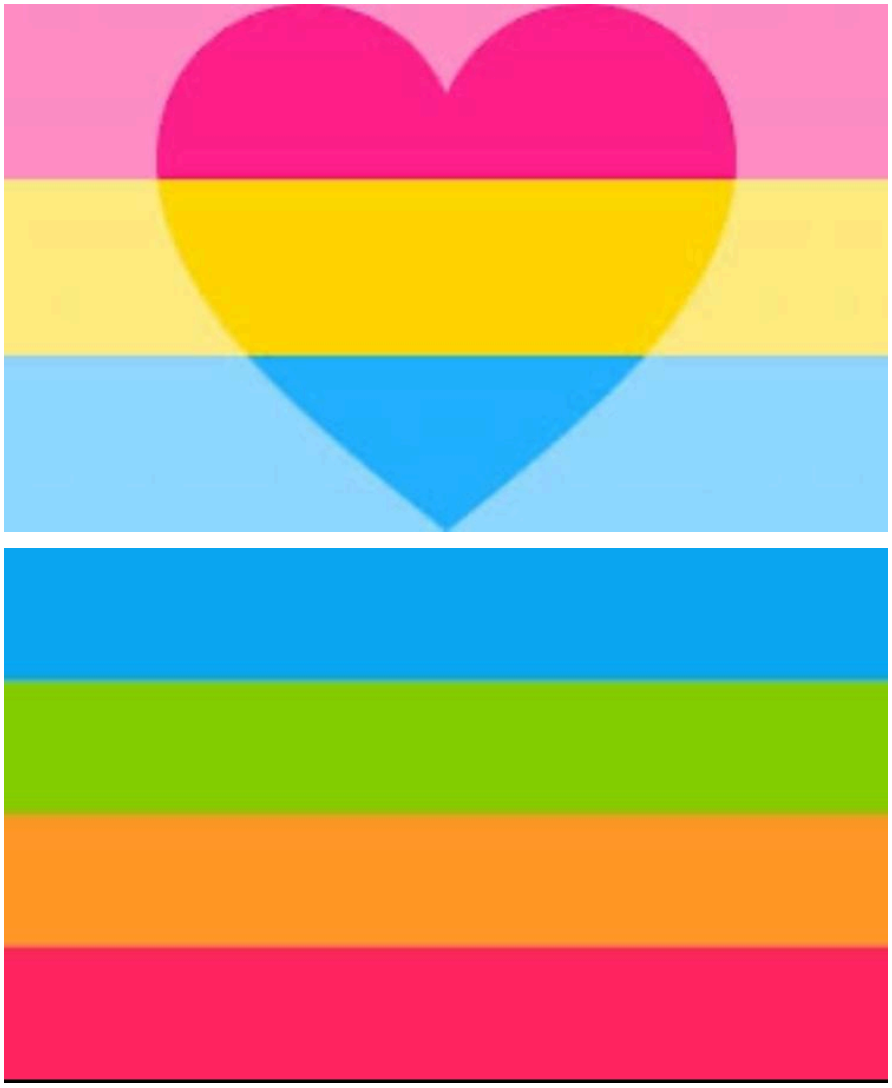

An aroace identity wherein one feels significant tertiary attraction towards others.

P

Panromantic

A romantic orientation wherein one is attracted to all genders, with no preference or distinction in their attraction between different genders.

Pansexual

A sexual orientation wherein one is attracted to all genders in such a way that gender doesn't play a difference into their attraction towards people or influence how their attraction manifests.

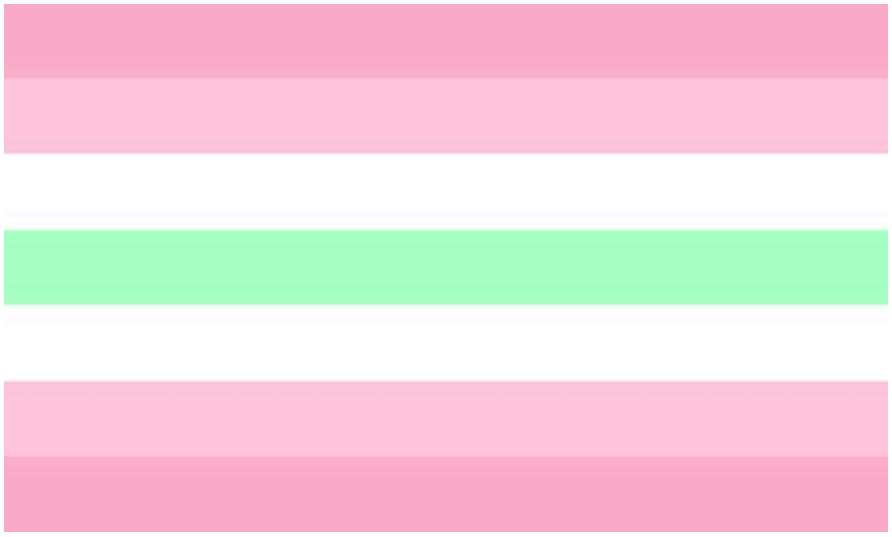

Polysexual

A sexual orientation and/or umbrella term wherein one feels sexual attraction to multiple genders. Alternatively, one is attracted to nearly all genders with the exception of one or multiple.

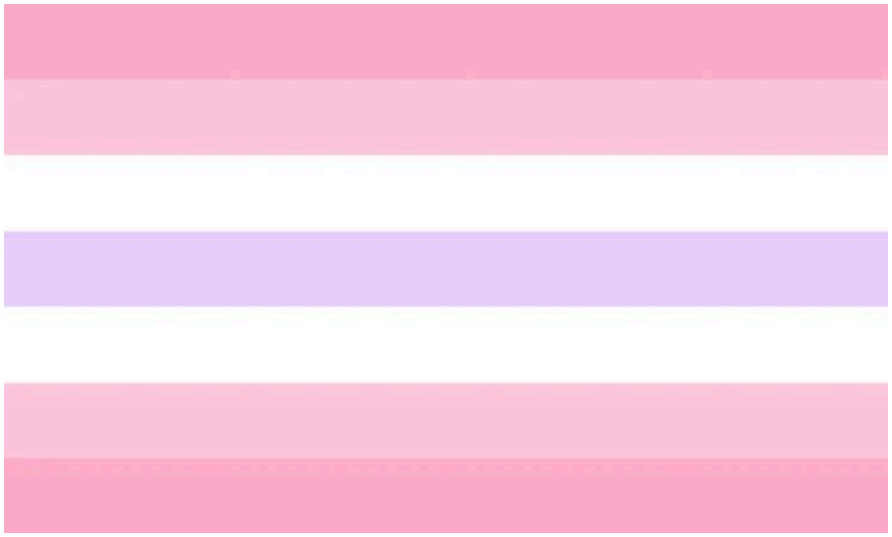

Pomoromantic

A romantic orientation wherein one deliberately refuses to label and define that part of their identity.

Pomosexual

A sexual orientation wherein one deliberately refuses to label and define their sexuality.

Q

Queerplatonic

A relationship or partnership term used to describe a relationship or partner that is more than a friend, but not necessarily in a romantic or sexual way.

Quoiromantic

A romantic orientation under the aromantic spectrum wherein one is uncertain about their romantic orientation, refuses to label such, or is confused about the concept of romantic attraction.

Quoisexual

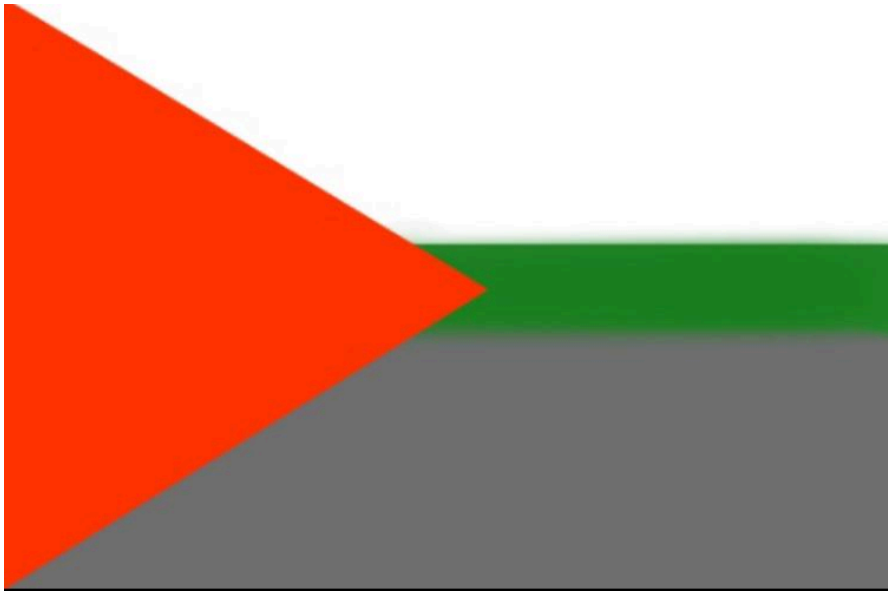

A sexual orientation under the asexual spectrum wherein one is uncertain about their sexual orientation, refuses to label such, or is confused about the concept of sexual attraction.

R

Rosemantic

A romantic orientation akin to demiromantic, wherein one cannot feel romantic attraction unless a sexual bond (sexual activity or attraction) has been established.

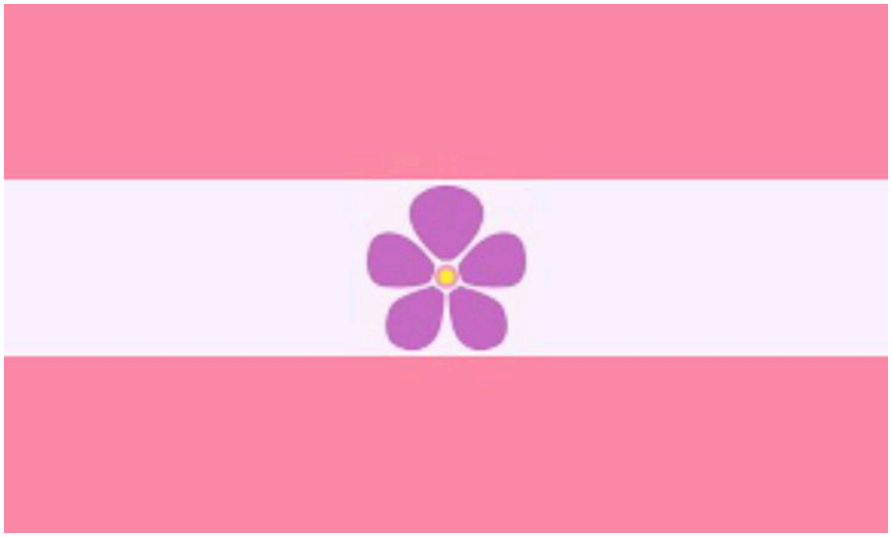

S

Sapphic

A romantic or sexual orientation wherein a non-man is primarily attracted to non-men; more commonly known as the more inclusive form of lesbian, although it could also be used as an umbrella term for fem-aligned attraction.

Example: Omnisexuals with a preference towards women and nonbinary people.

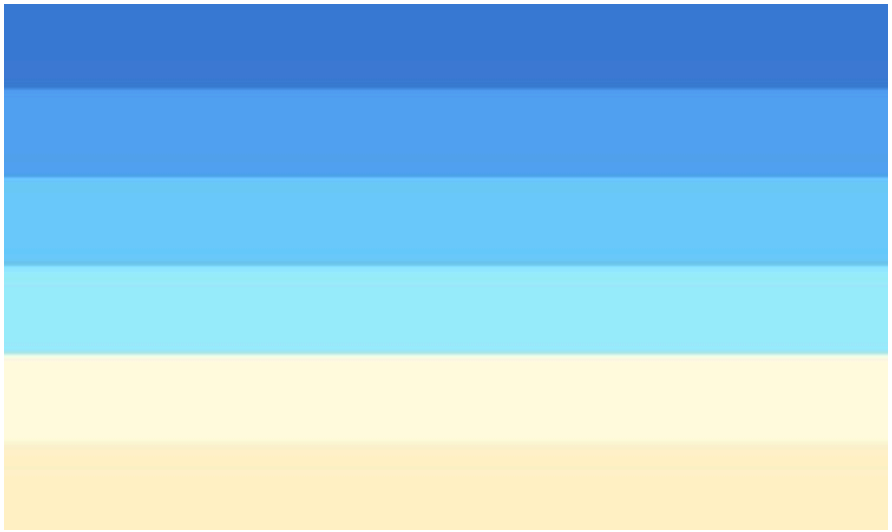

T

U

Uranic

A romantic/sexual orientation wherein one is attracted to masc-aligned and neutral genders, regardless of their own gender identity.

V

W

X

Y

Z