CHARACTER (looks like, says, does)

Choose and quote three passages that show how the character changes from the beginning, through the middle and to the end. (3 total) List the page number for each passage.	What do each of these changes suggest about the character? What have they learned, what has affected them, or how have they changed?

PLOT (Exposition, Rising Action, Climax, Falling Action, Resolution)

Choose five moments from the text that you think best show each part of the plot line for the main conflict in the story. Quote the passage and list the page number. HINT: Sometimes it's easiest to list the climax and then work forward and backward. (5 passages total)

1. Exposition (What's happened before the story started or what situation are we starting in?):

2. Rising Action (Smaller conflicts arise and the character is faced with a problem):

3. Climax (The characters have to deal with the main problem):

4. Falling Action (The results after the characters deal with the main problem):

5. Resolution (How are the characters after the problem? Is it resolved? Does it cause new situations?)
