

Hi folks, thanks for your interest in our 2025 library training about turning your thesis or capstone into a manuscript to submit to a journal. In this document, please share the questions that are on your mind. Is there anything about the publication process that confuses or worries you? Let's sort out the details!

If you want to ask a question privately, don't write it in this public document. Instead, email the public health librarian: kate.nyhan@yale.edu.

WRITE YOUR QUESTIONS HERE

- How should we determine which journal to submit to (based on impact factor, level of entrance for submission, what other factors should be considered?)
- Does YSPH have any funding support for submission entries?
- Pitching a submission to an editor – cover letter
- How much of a thesis can be reused in a journal article without violating the “prior publication” rule?
- What's the process for applying for an APC waiver?
- Are there specific public health journals covered by Yale's Transformative Agreements that waive Article Processing Charges?
- If I wrote the thesis solo but had guidance from a faculty advisor, how do I decide whether to include them as a co-author?
