Captivate, Connect, Convert: Let us Ignite Your Project to Light

Everyone gets the same amount of time each day.

Some use it productively, others don't.

In a world of competition, there are two categories that all businesses fall under.

Success or failure.

You're either growing or you're falling behind.

Business can become stagnant, and if you're not using today's strategies to overcome those challenges, then you're not setting yourself up for success tomorrow.

Remember, success is conversion. Time is money.

Partner with us, and you'll get both.

Time is of the essence. Everyone wants more time to spend with their children. They want time to pursue their other passions outside of business.

In the same breath, the goal in mind is always growth. Getting the message out there. Finding leads to new clients. All of it.

Enter Roll and Cap.

Through us, you can expand on your own creative ideas, and take confidence in the quality. Our visual production attracts emotion from your audience, with a crisp and professional look.

Who says you can't spend more time doing the things you want? Who says you can't grow as a business at the same time?

We don't... because we deliver exceptional results, and our clients have more time to focus on other ventures.

You never have to worry about quality.

One of our recent clients had a lot riding on a specific project. Their goal was to stop something from happening and they used our visuals to achieve it.

Instead of procrastinating, they took preventative action and produced positive results.

You might be thinking- "Great, but how does this help me?"

Through the illustration of visual storytelling, we expand on the creative vision you have, and bring it to life.

Inspiring emotion is our specialty.

No matter what your story is, it deserves to be heard. There is no such thing as "too small."

If you are a big-time corporation, or you're just looking for grad photos. Choose us and sleep soundly knowing we're in your corner.

Or you can sit back and watch the competition pass you until you're completely out of reach. If your goal is quality, there are no shortcuts.

We are the #1 option for visual design in Washington.

Introducing our production guru, Eric Higginbotham. The founder and CEO of Roll and Cap production. Born and raised in Tri-Cities, WA.

Eric always had a burning desire for media production.

He started at Focal Point Marketing as a video producer in 2011. In 2017, he transitioned to HAPO credit union as a multimedia producer.

While he was working at HAPO, he started his own business (Roll and Cap) on the side.

Eric always knew visual marketing was the future. So, he dedicated his life to photography and videography. He learned just a few things along the way...

In 2020, business was booming. He quit his 9-5 and pursued individual projects.

Fast forward to now.

Roll and Cap works with all business sizes. From corporations to mom-and-pop shops. We still make time for smaller projects like high school grad pics.

Earlier this year, we had the privilege of working with the Kennewick school district.

For two years in a row, the school district missed out on crucial levy's that would provide more money for the schools.

The district came to Eric frustrated, because they wanted to provide more for their children.

We not only collaborated, but created an inspiring piece of art. It injected emotion back into this community.

We narrowly secured the levy. For the first time in 3 years, the Kennewick school district received over $20 million in funding for schools.

Essentially, Roll and Cap is a production company. Anything that involves a camera is our game. We also do graphic design and motion graphics.

We work with you, for you. Whatever your story is, we deploy all of our resources to make your vision a reality.

Every step of the way we collaborate together, with you so that it represents you or your business accurately.

Not only do we deliver beautiful visuals, but measurable impact. It's about dispatching results.

Our mix of creativity and know-how makes storytelling easy and unforgettable.

See your story in a whole new light—every detail, every moment, captured just right. Make your visuals stand out. Pick Roll and Cap for a storytelling experience that's far beyond ordinary.
