3. RESEARCH METHODS

The research method contains the research specifications, research types, approach methods, data collection techniques, and data analysis methods used in the research. The research method is written descriptively and made in 1 paragraph.

4. RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

The Research Results and Discussion contains a description of the analysis of research results to provide answers/solutions to research problems. If there are details in accordance with the problem discussed, then you can use sub-chapter writing as below.

4.1 Sub Chapter (Palatino Linotype 11 Font, Bold, font format: Capitalize Case)

Descriptions in Sub Chapters, avoid using dot points, devotion, or numbering as follows:

- a.
- b.
- c.

It should be written in the following sentence: a.; b., and c.

Manuscripts are written in essay form, so there is no numeric or alphabetical format that separates between chapters/sections, or to mark new chapters/sections. Tables and figures/graphs are only available in the discussion. The table is created with only horizontal lines.
