Frost:

- Male, 16 Years old, 76cm/2'6" tall
- Can easily stand low/freezing temperatures
- Can summon rain at the cost of some energy, his tail glows blue when doing so
- Sometimes serious, but likes taking things not seriously most of the time

Skye:

- Female, 16 Years old, 82cm/2'7" tall
- Ice dragon spirit
- Can easily stand low/freezing temperatures
- She has wings that can be used to fly, can only carry 1 person at a time
- Her horns and eyes glow in pure dark, can also be used as a light source
- Acts serious on critical things, otherwise she's quite silly and curious

STORY:

1 - The day their leaves fell off their tree, it was quite windy, maybe a bit too much.

The leaves traveled far far away from the tree where it could not communicate, they would follow the same path, same turns, like it was some kind of miracle.

The leaves landed in an unknown area filled with endless snow, Frost was the first to land, as for Skye, she landed nearby inside a snow pile, giving her special properties like the horns, they met up not long after.

Frost was named by Skye, due to all the ice around, and Skye was named by Frost, due to her hair being blue like the endless sky above.

They considered each other family, like siblings.

2 - They helped each other out and lived in the snow for many years, both memorized the terrain perfectly with time, and usually didn't have trouble with anything.

One day, they went exploring and went opposite ways, to gather more resources.

When they came back, both had a gift for each other.

Skye had found a damaged pink scarf, and decided to give it to him because it reminded her of him, due to Frost having pink colors on him.

Frost had found a tool belt with a bag, and decided to give it to her because she would at times pick up many useful things and not have enough space to bring them back home.

3 - One day when they were doing their daily exploration together, they came across a small Moki village, inhabited by at the time 8 Mokis.

They were both curious and came closer to take a look.

They were well received, as these Mokis heard of Spirits in old tales before, but never saw any in person.

Both then asked if there was anything they could do to help them, as they pretty much had nothing to do.

There were some tasks to do, and it took them little time to finish them.

They then agreed with the Mokis to make their new home there and help them daily, as it was nice and cozy to be around them.

Skye then flew back to their old home to take all of their stuff there to the village, bringing a few things at a time, in half a day, they were all set there.

4 - The Moki clip that Frost has on his head was crafted by Skye as she was starting to learn about more materials and wanted to get started with something small.

5 - Frost and Skye are in charge of bringing supplies and materials for the village, they even explore further terrain at times, not much, but something is something.

Their good knowledge of Niwen's terrains, great moving abilities, plus Skye's flying make it easier to spot any safe or dangerous zone to look in.

6 - In one of their recent expeditions to gather more knowledge about Niwen's terrains, they got ambushed by a large horde of enemies that were observing them for quite some time now.

After a lot of fighting, when they were all down and/or distracted, Skye grabbed Frost then flew away back to the village.

Skye got a big scar on her right eye.

Frost got a small scar on his left cheek and significant damage on his left leg, which required some bandages and rest for a few days and he couldn't even stand up.

Mokis would often come to check and stay with them, making good and fun company.

7 - After both of them fully recovered, they were truly excited to go back on expeditions together.

Frost and Skye refused to put any band-aids on as they thought the scars made them look cooler.

As for Frost's leg bandage, he wouldn't need it anymore, but he often puts a new one on as it gives him a "tougher" look.

They agreed to be more careful with their expeditions from now on while also having fun.
