BIOGRAPHY

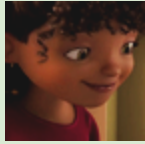

tip's mother, lucy was born to italian parents, though she grew up in barbados, where her parents had lived for several years, having moved from italy before her birth. she had a normal childhood, and it wasn't until she met a young local that things took a rather different turn. she was instantly taken in by him, and it wasn't long before he had convinced her to move out of her parents home and in with him. they had a rocky relationship, but she loved him, and stayed with him for several years until she got pregnant, and tip came into the world.

the story behind her name was a little embarrassing for lucy, she had chosen the wrong word for her daughter's name, and by the time she realized her mistake, it was too late. still, it wasn't long before lucy was calling her daughter tip, or turtlebear. lucy was filled with love for her daughter, but, unfortunately, her relationship with tip's father only grew worse. eventually, lucy left him to return to her parents home, and a court order was issued to keep him away from herself and tip, but was broken several times.

lucy worked hard to support her daughter, and tip led a pretty good life in barbados. she was a happy child, visiting the beach often with her grandparents while her mother was working. she made friends quickly, and as she went through school, she proved to be a smart girl, especially in math. her grandmother passed away when she was six, and her grandfather when she was seven, however, and after that, things became a little more difficult. lucy had to take on more jobs just to support her daughter, leaving her often exhausted, and having to leave tip in the care of friends. she always had time for her little turtlebear however, no matter what, and tip grew up loving and adoring her mother and her hardworking ways. when she turned 10, the family even gained a new member, a little calico kitten they named pig due to her curly tail.

life was proving to be too difficult in barbados, and as tip began to reach the age of 12, lucy had been saving up as much money as she could in order to get tip and herself out of barbados and over to america, where they could hopefully live a better life. So, when Tip turned 12, they moved to New York City, Lucy got them a small little apartment, and they began to settle.

It was hard for Tip to feel at home to begin with. She had to enter school late, and it was a lot different from her old school in Barbados which had been small enough that she had pretty much known everybody. She was seen as just a little nerd who liked math too much, and stuck out because she was an immigrant from Barbados. She had to deal with a lot of bullying from the girls in her year, and for a while she kept to herself.

It took her some time to open up, but she did so. She began to play ukulele again, and took ballet lessons, which she had loved in Barbados. She shone in her classes too, especially math-related ones like geometry, whereupon she got a proud A. It took a few months, but Tip finally began to settle and make friends, and soon, she found herself happy as Christmas began to approach. Her mom didn't have to work so much, and they spent more time together, and grew closer, much to Tip's delight.

On Christmas morning, Tip was enjoying opening up her presents with her mother and Pig, when suddenly, the gravity completely shut off. In a flash of light, Lucy was gone, and Tip was left alone with Pig. Gravity returned, and Tip found that people all over the city were being abducted by an alien race called the Boov, and she had no idea where they were going. Not knowing what else to do, and terrified that she would be next, Tip set up camp, setting up a clever trap for the Boov, and waited for her mother.

Eventually, she ran to escape the Boov, driving away with Pig in her mother's car. In trying to escape them, she crashed the car into a MOPO driving lot and ran inside. There, she encountered one face to face, and locked him into a freezer. After some bargaining, the Boov agreed to fix her car if she let him out, and he did so, enabling the car to hover by fixing it and using 'Slushious' brand slushy as fuel. The Boov wanted to accompany her, and eventually upon learning that he could help her find her mother, she agreed. She learned the Boov was named 'Oh, and that in order to find her mother, she needed to go to Paris.

They continued to flee from the Boov, and over time, the two of them began to slowly become friends. She eventually learned from Oh that he was a fugitive because he had accidentally sent an e-vite out to the whole galaxy for a party of his, which may reach the Gorg, the enemy of the Boov, whom they had invaded Earth to hide from. Eventually, after reaching Paris and sneaking into the signal tower, which was the Eiffel Tower, Tip discovered her mother was in Australia, and Oh was able to cancel his e-vite, so the Gorg did not receive it.

After escaping the Boov again, Tip, Oh, and Pig set out, and soon became clear the Gorg threat was not over. Drones began to appear as the Boov began to flee, and the two of them managed to knock one down before getting hit themselves. After deciding to try and fix the ship using Gorg parts, Oh discovered a super chip to power up the Slushious once more, and the two of them set off for Australia. The Boov were all evacuating, and Oh desperately tried to get Tip to go with him on the last ship. Furious that he was breaking his promise, she denied, and they went their separate ways.

Having no luck in finding Lucy in such a huge crowd, Tip was ready to give up, but Oh returned, with a tracker to help her. She used it to help her reunite with her mother, and all was well until the Gorg ship finally hit the atmosphere. Oh locked her, her mother, and Pig into Slushious for their own safety as he went to return what the Gorg wanted. Tip was able to distract the Gorg from her car long enough to stop him, but it didn't stop quickly enough, and it seemed as though oh had been killed. tip was devastated, but, as the ship backed up, it revealed that oh was alive. the gorg was reunited with an egg that the boov leader, captain smek had mistakenly stole, which contained all of the next generation of gorg, and peacefully left the planet.

the boov began to restore the planet the way they had left it, and most of them took up residence upon the moon, while some returned to earth, and tip, lucy and pig moved back into their apartment. oh was a frequent visitor, and tip had made a lifelong friend.
