

Sale Kane Exposed Once Again

It seems that we at the Gazelle were not done exposing Mr. Kane after all, as earlier this week another shocking fact related to his being a werewolf was uncovered. This is the fourth instance of Sale appearing in this lovely gazelle; he seems to be an infinite gold mine of werewolf-related stories. You may be familiar with Thirsty Glitter Man and Stupidface, however another person of interest in their strange world is Hungry Hair Man. This interesting specimen happens to also be a werewolf, a trait that he shares with Mr. Sale Kane. Hungry Hair Man goes to the same school as Stupidface as well as Thirsty Glitter Man's entire extended family (adults included), and lives in some unspecified forest in Washington state. Using some of their immense brain power, our reporters managed to deduce that Sale Kane and Hungry Hair Man are one and the same. Our reporters figured out that California (where Mr. Kane lives) is only roughly 1,000 miles away from Washington state, which everyone knows is less than a few hours' journey for a werewolf. From this data it is clear that the only logical conclusion is that Sale has been running back and forth along the west coast for years now, reaching Forks High School and donning a clever disguise at day, then returning home under the cover of night to his wife and kids in California.

Exclusive Cat Elizabeth Makeup Tutorial

Cat Elizabeth was so kind as to explain, in detail, her makeup routine to one of our reporters.

Reporter: So, Cat Elizabeth, would you be so kind as to explain, in detail, your makeup routine?

Cat Elizabeth: Yes. When i first wake up from my beauty  and get out of , I start by mashing up a whole  with my . I take this  paste and smear it all over my face, then immediately wipe it off because I'm actually deathly allergic to .

Reporter: Hmm. I can imagine that the sudden, life-threatening swelling of your face really highlights your natural feline beauty. Anyway, what next?

Cat Elizabeth: After I rid myself of the , I pour   on my head (it compliments my  beautifully). After I wipe the   off, I cover my face in a layer of duct tape that I quickly rip off. Due to the tape and the , my face turns bright red, so I pour some Elmer's glue on to finish the look.