Three ways to find the course blog on a random computer:

1. keep a link in your email, open the email. . . .

2. search for "howard ted welser" in google, and my google profile page is the first hit. Scroll down to the blog section of the link list on the right.

Go to the blog for all course info.

Create a gmail account before the first friday of the course.

We will only use blackboard to post points from assignments.

Frackin Blackboard deleted my earlier version of this announcement.

That is why this one is so short.

Go to the blog.
