Abstract

A single paragraph of about 250 words maximum. We strongly encourage authors to use the following style of structured abstracts, but without headings: (1) Background: Place the question addressed in a broad context and highlight the purpose of the study; (2) Methods: briefly describe the main methods or treatments applied; (3) Results: summarize the article's main findings; (4) Conclusions: indicate the main conclusions or interpretations.

Keywords: Please include 4-5 appropriate keywords. They should be in an alphabetical order and be separated by commas.

1. Introduction

The purpose of the introduction is to arouse the reader's attention and provide a general overview of the paper.

2. Literature Review

A literature review is a survey of scholarly sources (such as books, journal articles and theses) related to a specific topic or research question. It is often written as part of a thesis, dissertation, or research paper, in order to situate your work in relation to existing knowledge.

3. Methodology

This section describes the methodology of the study. It may include sub-sections such as participants, research instruments, data collection and data analysis.

4. Results

This section should be organized in order to answer each of your research questions

Table 1: Font size and format of the full paper (Source)

No.	Content	Notes
1.	The full paper should be 5000 words maximum including references and appendix
2.	Please use 12-point Times New Roman font and single line spacing for the whole document.
3.	Paragraphs must be justified (fully aligned).

5. Discussion and Conclusion

The conclusion is the final, overall summary of the entire paper. The conclusions should generally be listed in the order of 1), 2), 3), ..., or structured as paragraphs.

This section should completely, accurately and concisely point out the principles and their generalizability revealed by the results of the investigations or experiments on the research subjects; whether there are any exceptions found in the research or problems that are difficult to explain and solve in the paper; the similarities and differences to other research work (including to that of the authors themselves); the theoretical and practical significance and the value of the paper

6. Limitations and Further Study

No study covers all aspects of a research problem. The author(s) should therefore discuss the limitations or gaps in the study. The future scope or plan of the study should also be identified.
