This page is a part of the editable document tree bit.ly/covid19collectivecare. This is a US-based resource for people looking out for themselves and their communities through personal preparation, collective care, mutual aid and advocacy. You are welcome to add to, edit and copy/share these resources with the intention of helping communities come together and support each other and with as much attention as possible to all our communities' specific needs. There is misinformation out there, so please review resources carefully and check all medical and scientific information against current CDC and WHO guidelines. We also recommend http://bit.ly/CoronavirusResourceKit, this database of localized resources, and "Collective Care is our Best Weapon Against COVID-19"! Please close this doc when not in use so others can access and edit it.
