Staff Speaker for Black History Month: Mrs. Justinger

- PBIS meets monthly for all of Parkview and some subcommittees to work on specific projects.
- Winter Bullpup - lessons on playing behavior (playing in the snow and making sure that their gear is taken care of when coming in from recess)
- All Students received Bully Prevention lessons (4 total)
- How to recognize, report, and refuse to bully
- After the Spring break unit for in-person students will be focused on safe and personal space
- This is an optional curriculum; a letter will be sent how to families to opt-out
- Virtual students are not participating in this curriculum due to the sensitive nature of the conversations and for student privacy
- Parent lessons were included in the Thursday notes as an option for families for live lessons
- Black History Month
- Each grade level has developed its curriculum with content for the month to celebrate cultures and leaders in black history month

Principal Report:

- Answering a question from January, the school has been watching for signs of bullying with virtual students returning and nothing has been noticed or reported. They will keep monitoring
- FORWARD Testing coming this spring
- Assessments have been pared back this year because of the multiple learning models
- Virtual students will be invited into the school to take the tests
- Information will be coming out for families with more details
- Thank you for the snack donations for the parent-teacher conferences
- Question:
- Parents who have virtual students, whose virtual classes are not all Parkview peers. Will students who have been in a virtual class be evaluated to be in in-person classrooms together next fall?

Questions for staff in attendance:

- Appreciation for the snacks and treats that have been in the lunchroom.
