Dear Fairbanks Families,

In order to continue to be prepared for a sudden closure for inclement weather or a disruption to school district operations, the information regarding notification, learning plans, and schedules is shared below.

We want families to be aware in the event of a sudden shift - there are no plans for a closure.

Notification of Closure

We want our school families to be prepared should we need to use our short-term remote learning plan if a building or department suddenly experiences limited operations. Please review the following information pertaining to possible implementation of a short term remote learning plan.

- An all-call will go out to families to notify of the shift to a short-term remote learning need (similar to a Calamity Day call).
- Building principals will implement the short term remote learning schedule.
- Teachers will communicate learning activities or assignments.
- Students will engage with learning activities or assignments in a timely manner.
- If a student should have technological difficulties or connectivity issues, a reasonable extension of time will be provided by the teacher. If the activity or assignment is not completed in a timely manner, the student could be considered absent on remote learning days. Please communicate promptly if issues arise, as the school will flexibly partner with your child.
