

Watt

Verse: Sonic/multi

Species: Dog (Siberian Husky/Dalmation Mix)

Gender: Agender {They/Them}

Sexuality: Panromantic/Asexual

Age: 19

Nationality Analog: US/American

Instrument of choice: DJ Turntable/Drums/Midi Fighter

Normal Appearance:

(original concept sketch) https://twitter.com/Dog_Drugs/status/1017178860289495042

(full ref sheet) <https://twitter.com/rainandmaple/status/1028720630995144704>

Watt's fur is white with light blue accents. They have a black spot around their left eye that is permanent and extends part way up to their left ear. The eyes themselves are green, one lighter than the other. Watt also has spots all over their muzzle. Their tail is long and bushy and really soft, the fur is really frizzy looking because...electricity?

They've tried to brush it multiple times, it just looks like that. All of Watt's teeth are really sharp and kinda spooky looking and they are super self-conscious about it so don't bully them plz.

About: Watt is what I would consider the ultimate friend. They are always down for whatever and love to have a good time and entertain and just be there for people and help them without asking much of anything in return. They are very nice and have a super high tolerance level for shenanigans. They have a lot of love to give. They are a fighter though and will protect themselves and their friends when push comes to shove. They don't like or enjoy fighting but are very good at it out of necessity, a lot of people are after them and more specifically their blood (See below as to why trust me it's not as weird as you think). Watt is also a skateboarding nut and you'll be hard pressed to see them without it. When they aren't running for their life or skating they like to make music a lot. Music is like their second favorite thing ever.

Likes: Music of all kinds. Mostly electronic, Space and Stars and the Sky, Bright colors that stand out, Making friends, Singing and dancing, 90s/80s "Aesthetic" Fashion.

Dislikes: Fire {BIG FEAR}, Fighting, Killing, rude people, guns, showoffs {Comet is the only exception}.

Weapons/Abilities:

The power to control lightning. It runs through their blood causing them to be incredibly quick, bring it down from the sky, shoot it from their hands, shock people just by touching them, and power electronics that didn't previously have power. Watt can control the wattage/volts so electronics don't blow up in their hands and they don't kill people by giving them a hug or high five, and a small vial of their blood could power a large city for about 4-8 years (Something that makes them very desirable to the more scummy people of the world.)

Watt carries with them a pair of drumsticks, pretty unassuming at first glance, but thanks to the material they are made with they can become powerful and potentially lethal weapons. The sticks are incredibly durable and very conductive which mean that if Watt wanted to, Watt could use them as sort of bootleg stun batons to incapacitate their enemies and defend themselves. The utility of them is surprisingly robust and can be used in very creative ways. They're also just like, really good drumsticks.

Watt is very acrobatic and has quick reflexes, amazing hearing and sense of smell, does not run out of stamina very easily and could fight for hours if need be. They can jump from VERY high places, land on their feet, and keep running. They can create a shield around them that makes them MUCH more durable to attacks of all kinds but Water it lasts for about 5 minutes before they need to stop using it.

Not so much a weapon but a tool, they own a skateboard specially built for them so it can go as fast as they go and take hard landings like they do. It's like a souped up version of a normal skateboard that goes really fast over almost any terrain (even water. It's not easy). The skateboard is made out of nanite tech thus making it so Watt can deconstruct and construct it at will making it SUPER portable.

Activities: Skateboarding, Running, Playing/Listening to music,

Fun Facts:

>Watt loves music so much that they'll make their own music videos for songs they like with people they meet on their journey. They aren't a very good singer though so they mostly lip-sync.

>Watt is really good at rhythm games like DDR, Osu, Guitar Hero, and pretty much any other you can think of.

> Watt is a master of spouting obscure references that only like 20 people in the world would get and they would apologize for not having better taste if they weren't laughing so hard remembering a funny video they saw that has like 2,000 views from 8 years ago.

> Watt uses AAVE (African American Vernacular English) when speaking and also casually tosses in some 90s slang every now and then.

Music that reminds me of them:

<https://open.spotify.com/user/starshocklives/playlist/00QmLeNvD44wcM4rayNYQj?si=lvFbJaW0RH-g51wRDNKuRg>

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=oL-Pj8scYW4>

<https://soundcloud.com/assertivef/shelter-assertive-mitomoro-bootleg>

<https://soundcloud.com/trekkie-trax/batsu-in-the-blue-shirt-with-cola-splash-remix>

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8twpQTna_9w