The introduction is written in font 12 pt, 1 spaced, after 6 pt, and each first line for each paragraph is indented 1.25 cm. All citations are managed with an automatic reference system such as Mendeley or Zotaro using APA style 7th Edition.

Articles must be the result of research, literature review/ scientific studies, and written at least 10-12 pages. The introduction should contain background information and a research problem statement, please pay attention to emphasize any gap and novelty that is being discussed. As an addition, please refer to at least journal articles from the last 10 years.

All text is written in English (including title on tables) in Cambria font. The margins used in this document are 3 cm left, 3 cm top, 3 cm right, and 3 cm bottom with A4 paper size.

METHODOLOGY

The methodology should be able to explain the steps or procedures that have been done for the research complete and in detail. Please avoid using abbreviations, assumptions, or much of definitions. This part contains the method used; types of research; research subject and object, research location; informants/ participants/ population/ research samples; data collection techniques; and data analysis techniques. Also, close the sub with brief results from the use of the method. Each figure and table is presented by explaining the title and source of the table/ figure. Apart from that, the table presented does not need to use vertical lines, and in Cambria 10 pt.

For example:

No	Informant(s)	Age	Occupation
1	Informant 1	33 years old	Lecturer
2	Informant 2	30 years old	Civil Servant
3	Informant 3	29 years old	Creator Content
4	Informant 4	20 years old	Creator Content

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

Results and discussion must answer the research objectives with in-depth analysis by presenting research findings data and reinforced with previous findings data and reinforced with previous findings from the latest journals published in the last 10 years. References from journals are very important and necessary to strengthen the research findings discussed in this journal article.

Discussion subtitles do not need to be numbered, just bold and separated from the discussion content page. If there are discussion points in the discussion, they can simply be presented in paragraphs, without using a numbering system.

CONCLUSION

This section must be able to describe the essence of the overall research results which can answer the research objectives and be useful for the development of science, both practical and theoretical.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Explain or state who contributes to the research process, both material and non-material for closure.
