

The Constitution of the Crown Dependency of Čechsexia

Preamble

*We, the people of Čechsexia, determined to develop and protect Čechsexia
in order to preserve our values within the Essexian nation and to protect and promote justice, equality, liberty, democracy and the rights of man, we accept this constitution of the Crown Dependency of Čechsexia*

Chapter I - Basic provisions

Article 1

The Chapter I of the Third Constitution of the Commonwealth of Essexia (furthermore as “Commonwealth”) shall be considered as a part of the constitutional law of the Crown Dependency of Čechsexia (furthermore as “Čechsexia”).

Article 2

The monarch of the Commonwealth (furthermore as “monarch”) is the immutable head of state of Čechsexia.

Article 3

The Commonwealth is sovereign in terms of Čechsexian foreign affairs and defence.

Article 4

The Parliament of the Commonwealth (furthermore as “Parliament”) maintains the right to intervene in the domestic affairs of Čechsexia should there be reasonable suspicion of a breach in the Bill of Rights, the governmental institutions of Čechsexia not being democratic in nature.

Chapter II - Crown Prince

Article 5

The Crown Prince is the deputy of the monarch in Čechsexia.

Article 6

The Crown Prince is appointed by the monarch.

Article 7

The Crown Prince will hold their position for their lifetime or until their resignation. Before their death or resignation, the Crown Prince may be removed from office by

- i. the monarch.
- ii. unanimous vote by resolution of the Pub of Čechsexia (furthermore as “Pub”). By such resolution the Crown Prince is suspended from further exercise of their functions. If the vote fails to remove the Crown Prince dissolution of the Pub shall follow.

Article 8

The powers of the Crown Prince include

- i. appointing and removing government ministers,
- ii. calling elections and dissolving Pub,

- iii. decreeing national laws,
- iv. assenting national laws,
- v. issuing the royal veto,
- vi. communicating information to and from the Commonwealth
- vii. sitting in the executive meetings of the Commonwealth and Čechsexia

Article 9

In case the title of the Crown Prince is vacant, the powers of the Crown Prince are assumed by the Chief Minister (appointing and removing ministers) and the monarch (the remaining powers in Article 8) until the new Crown Prince is appointed. The Pub can be only dissolved after an agreement between the monarch and the Chief Minister.

Chapter III - Pub

Article 10

The Pub shall be composed of the representatives of the people of Čechsexia.

Article 11

The Members of the Pub shall be elected by the universal, equal, direct and suffrage of all men and women of Čechsexia over fourteen years of age, according to the principles of proportional representation. Election day must be a Sunday or a public holiday. Detailed regulations shall be prescribed by a national electoral law.

Article 12

There shall be five Members of the Pub.

Article 13

The primary legislative power of Čechsexia is vested in the Pub.

Article 14

The Pub is to be elected no less frequently than once every year.

Article 15

The monarch may dissolve the Pub, but only once for the same cause.

Article 16

The Crown Prince, in the capacity of Speaker of the House, shall determine the Pub's rules of procedure and preside over debate. The quorum shall be determined by the rules of procedure.

Article 17

The sittings of the Pub shall be public. On the demand of an unanimous vote they may be excluded from viewing proceedings.

Article 18

A resolution of the Pub requires a simple majority of the votes cast, except where the constitution requires another majority.

Article 19

If a resolution is tied, then the Speaker of the House may issue the decisive vote. In the event they do not discharge this duty, the motion will fail.

Article 20

No Member of the Pub may at any time be subjected to judicial or administrative prosecution, or otherwise held responsible outside the sittings, by reason of their vote or by reason of any legal utterances made in their official capacity.

Article 21

A Member of Pub may simultaneously hold office as a federal and state executive officer, and a member of a state legislature.

Article 22

The Crown Prince cannot hold office as Member of the Pub.

Chapter IV - Executive powerArticle 23

The executive power within Čechsexia is vested in the cabinet.

Article 24

An individual must be a citizen of Čechsexia to hold executive office.

Article 25

The Chief Minister shall be the head of the government, and shall be appointed by the Crown Prince, but the Crown Prince's decision is not bound by the result of an election.

Article 26

Ministers of Čechsexia shall be appointed by the Crown Prince on Chief Minister's advice, the Crown Prince however can not appoint a Minister despite Chief Minister's advice.

Article 27

The Chief Minister or ministers of Čechsexia may be impeached by the Pub for conduct that endangers the integrity of their office. The charges must be tried by a full quorum of the Pub, with the defendant convicted only if the Pub finds them guilty by two-thirds majority vote. Following conviction, the defendant is immediately removed from office.

Article 28

Bills shall be introduced by the Crown Prince, Members of the Pub, or by ministers.

Article 29

The initiation of bills by ministries shall require the consent of the Crown Prince. If a ministry and the Crown Prince fail to agree, the verdict of the Crown Prince is to be prominent.

Article 30

In the event a minister does not simultaneously hold office as a Member of the Pub, the minister may submit the bill for hearing through the Speaker of the House.

Chapter V - Final provisionsArticle 31

The judicial system of Čechsexia is shared with the Commonwealth.

Article 32

Čechsexia shall be divided in counties, which are divided in territories. Crown Prince can assign governors of the counties or territories, the office of governor is compatible with other government offices. Admission of new counties or territories may only happen via an amendment.

Article 33

The constitution can be amended by an unanimous resolution of the Pub. The Parliament may request a new voting on the amendment, shall the Pub fail to hold a new vote dissolution of the Pub shall follow.

Article 34

Shall the amendments violate section (6) subsection [a] of the Čechsexia Act 2020, they shall be deemed unconstitutional.

Article 35

All public officials shall take an oath to support this constitution.

Article 36

Other provisions of the Čechsexia Act 2020 not specified in the constitution are to be considered as a part of the constitutional law in Čechsexia.

Article 37

This constitution enters force by ratification by the Parliament and receiving the countersignature of the monarch.
