

Cell Connection Monitor privacy policy

Cell Connection Monitor by Cyber Luthier doesn't collect, store, or share any user information. The only connection with the outside world is by asking for HTML content from an external site (google.com) in order to fulfill its purpose of determining if the cellular connection of the device is working. This request exposes your device's IP address to Google, which happens anyway when you use Google Services.